get a tank and win the game for your team while they're busy worrying about their kill ratio.

How to kill snipers? Several ways. You can do what Spooky suggested, you can get a Chem Warrior/Flame Trooper if you're on Nod, you can hide behind rocks and move slowly through an area infested with snipers, or just snipe them back.

or take a soldier and laugh at them when you kill them with a stream of bullets to the head

I once killed a havoc (from full health) with an engineer, using pistol only mine the tunnel But be sure you don't get the furor of your team on your back because you could be overmining (mine limit = 30)...

patch or laser chaingunner are the hardest for me to kill. As a sniper they make you panic more than other units, which may give you more time to kill them as well.

I'd have to say that the best thing would be practice.

Besides that, a unit with chem/burn damage is good. I like using Patch against snipers when I'm GDI, and when I'm on Nod, maybe laser chaingun or sbh(both have small burn damage). If you don't wanna spend the money, maybe try a flamethrower or chem trooper, although they are much easier to kill.

No offense, but they must have not been very good. If they get a shot on you anywhere when you are an eng, you're dead(I'm good at stating the obvious). And its not that hard getting a shot on one in the time it takes for a eng to pistol whip you.

Edit: Sorry if I'm posting on a old topic... Didn't see that the last post was last month. I was just on the front page.
