Renguard thinks my game2.exe is hacked. I got it from a thread posted here, which is now lost because of the new forums. In fact all threads where people posted replacements are lost, or the links in existing threads dead. If nobody hosts one, please add me to your MSN messenger and send me it in your free time. However a host would be good because then other people with the same problem can find this topic..

thanks but that's alright--I figured out what the problem was, I had applied silent kane's old patch to get the emoticons working in the game.
