It's official! Renegade players are now directed to the XWIS service instead of Westwood Online. Just remember that you don't have to do anything different to connect to XWIS. Just select the "Westwood Online" option in your Renegade client and connect as always.

Along with this transition, I am very happy to announce that Blackhand Studios has partnered with Strike Team to support the Renegade XWIS server. As part of this partnership, BHS will be equipped to handle several types of support issues, as well as communicating more effectively with the community through the MOTD seen when players log in.

We are very confident that this transition will turn out to be a great thing for Renegade. We will keep the Renegade Wiki updated with information and answers to your questions as they arise.

In closing, I want to extend a HUGE thanks to the following people who made this all possible: Olaf and DonCarlo at Strike-Team, Apoc and Pete L. at EA, and Scorpio9a who worked with Olaf to get the NAT bug fixed.

Happy gaming!

Then maybe BHS CAN help me with my problem! (see below) trooprm02 wrote on Sun, 13 November 2005 20:02trooprm02 wrote on Sun, 13 November 2005 11:34HUGE PROBELM NOW!

Ok, so I logged on to my trooprm02 account, everything worked fine,(I got a list of servers etc), BUT then I let my bro go on his trooprmJR account, and it said "serial has been marked invalid!"!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

So I switch back, and I'm unable to login on my troopr02 account!

^READ CAREFULLY

First off, my bro just started playing renegade yesterday (online anyway), and I was there and he didn't cheat! The other thing, My account worked (NOTE: WE HAVE THE SAME SERIAL!), so it is obviously not a cheating problem

I really need Blazers or Crimsons help because I'm sure many people have talked to them about a similar problem. Oh and it's not cheating because the guy said some regulars, that means he knows them and they don't cheat! So other people are having the problem, the only question is how to fix it!

Then blazer via BHS can't help because you're not affiliated...

WAIT! YES YOU CAN!

Check to see whether "troopr02" logged into renegade 2 days ago from the date of this post!

If you could provide this info to me, that could clear up any issue for XWIS to say that me/my bro were cheating!

The problem where you have to set the server port to zero has returned, presumably they will be implementing the fix they used on the xwis setup we have been using recently ?

*Edit, I forgot to say that I echo Crimsons comments and would also like to thank the Strike team and BHS, I really do think this will be great for the game.

All of us from the Jelly server are very grateful for all the effort everyone concerned has put into this.

I have a question. Now that Xwis is in control of WOL. Is it possible for them to release patches for it, Like the _1037 Patch but a new patch that is downloaded before logging into WOL.

Maybe a patch with several new maps.

Download the maps you want yourself, don't force others to get maps that they won't use.

Side note: When I logged in to WOL i get a server list with about 30 server, then i use XWIS tool and connect to get about 60 different servers, y is that?

The xwis server listings we have been using over the past week or so are not the game list that have been setup as the WOL replacement by the looks of it, people dont know the swapover is complete and are still using the other server listing.

I'm clearly not forcing people to download maps they dont want or need.

I downloaded most of the maps. Its not that i'm lazy and dont want to download them!. I just thought it might be better that way than all servers could include more maps on there rotation.

This is just an idea i came up with, Not a demand.

Well I'm still not confident about it. I got 3 names i use on a server deleted by XWIS. Also there are a bunch of people that started threads about deleted nicks and invalid serials on XWIS forum. Once that is fixed for all users, then I'll be more confident about the change.

Forcing people to use a 3rd party program is something which shouldn't be enforcing.

It's like saying; heres my virus, download it or you can't play.

Now I'm not saying RG is full of virii because we all know it isn't, but the fact that forcing people to download something they shouldn't need is unethical.

But hey. Everyone to their own opinion

Imo I think the Euro public player level is lower then the USA servers, When I was playing on the XWIS before this. Euro and USA people would play toghter in 1 serv..alot better.

I would just like to have a renegade-clan so our members feel "related".

A clanwars.cc - clan is for max 10 players if i'm right and you need to report a CW every X weeks ofcourse. We have more members but not all CW all that often. I just want some kind of link between us, as if we would put a tag before our name (like Soq has, for exemple).

With WOL if you would play with 2 diff IP one SN= possible.

Yeah, but all the MP servers have 996 ping, heh heh. The ones I get, anyway.

uhuh, I hope you don't mean IN the game, outside when you look at the server list there is alot more with 999 ping. That doesn't mean the actualy ping is 999 it's just the the server will most likely have a dedicated firewall which blocks incomming ICMP.

@trooper no im not 100% sure, but on the strike team forum I read something about the WOL transition and it said it would take the serial data base from EA and it would not alow people to use more people on a serial. I can't find it right now but I'm sure I read something simmilair like this.

I like the mod when you login btw, it will really help I think.
Maybe some basic rules too?

Ma1kel wrote on Tue, 22 November 2005 13:39Try re-installing, worked for me.

And using the same serial as before?

Ok, so I would:

- 1.Install with my serial
- 2.update to 1.037
- 3.Install renguard
- 4.apply the no-cd crack

and it should work?

another thing, xwis says that we don't need that tool anymore, well if I don't manually set it to xwis, it won't connect for me...

No, you would try before you did 3.

Also, you install the no cd crack after the 1.037 patch, before rengaurd.

What? I have ALWAYS installed the no-cd crack first, I remeber long ago I did it differently and rengaard wouldn't start up...

If you do the no-cd fix before you patch, it will just patch over it and it won't work.

No, Rengaard is not first. Renegade is first, Rengaard falls near the bottom. This is the last part of my read me file I use after I jack up Windows.

7. reinstall 1.037 patch
8. reinstall no_cd_crack
9. Install Rengaard
10. install CP1
11. Restart Computer
12. run the configuration for renegade, then the extended configuration in the patch folder.

13. move your wave files back to the data folder.
14. Start the game, bypass the registration and go to Westwood on-line, login mision08
15. reset q is laser.
16. alt tab to desktop and allow renegade to bypass firewall.
17. replace the lucidia font with the following arial text in the stylemgr configuration settings in the data folder.

FONT_INGAME_TXT=Arial MT, 8, 0
FONT_INGAME_BIG_TXT=Arial MT, 16, 0
FONT_INGAME_SUBTITLE_TXT=Arial MT, 14, 0
FONT_INGAME_HEADER_TXT=Arial MT, 9, 1

This no-cd patch can be installed if RG is already installed:

But be careful, as when RG is installed it replaces game.exe (which is what nocd patches try to patch).

So a person would need to place the game application on the desktop. Change the game2 application to game, install the no cd crack. Change the the application back to game2 and drop the original back into the folder?

yes, that should work or a no-cd crack creator could just make it patch game2.exe

I stop several services like anti-virus and anti-spam software before I install programs. Thats just how I do it. If you have a way that works for you, then knock yourself out. As for the lucidia text, it's butt ugly and hard to read. Again, this is just personal preference.

I can't recommend doing that, what happens if you install a program with a virus, which your AV would usually block?
