Titaniums aren't that expensive really. They are mid - range Zildjians.

I mean they are lovely cymbals but I'd much prefer some hand hammered cymbals mixed with some A customs and K customs.

I think the cost of everything I have now has come to about £1700

Damn that's cheap! If that was as cheap in the UK I'd probably sell ym kit and but that.

As for cymbals it depends what kind of style you want to play.

I'm more of a rock drummer so I use a larger china, thicker hihats, a heavier crash and a medium crash along with a thin splash I got for free with the set.

If you're going to be playing jazz, I'd suggest some Zildjian K or K customs and/or A customs. But NEVER buy a cymbal until you've tried it out.
