Yup... I get alil ticked off when I have to S P E L L **** out. Especially when the person I'm talking to is more concerned with belittling someone than he is in getting some input on his work. [typical corp. bs that belongs here about as much as my cursing insults]

Great Job! Much improvment from your ealier model. I belive they do lie down to drive, its shown in one of the Nod Missions I think... Also, I found the concept art you guys used to model the Refinery after. Great job with that too!Triforce implemented new vehicles, structures, and infantry that look almost Westwood quality.

It's cool, but I wouldn't use it. Something about it bothers me... No offense though, it's just my opinion.

quote:Originally posted by DarkOmen:it drives like the recon bike of renegade but the weapon is improved....Now this interests me. How so it is improved?Anyway, I learned how to make the bike not spin out as much =], you just lower the suspension a bit, just not too low or it won't move all together. I think I used .45 (or was it .40) suspension and it only spins out when I attempt to make jumps (this is more like a 50:50 chance though, doesn't always spin out). think i was viewing the bike in reverse. if those are weapons... i thought they where twin engines. but i still think it would look cool as hell if they were engines with orca flames rippin out when it takes off... excuse me ACCELERATES like a bat outta hell.
