It's been bugging me for a while now, it looks like some kinda of blueprint. I've seen it in more places than Ren, does anyone know?

It looks suspiciously like a concentric decorative background design, similar to the menu for Tiberian Sun. It isn't meant for any other purpose, or it would have been common knowledge ages ago.

Its actually 3 textures repeated over around the circle if you look closely so that means its not any kind of blueprint.

Also, it's the sign of a radioactive hazard.

It looks like the cursor in RA2

I think it's the Ion Cannon Schematic or just something random.

Maybe it would all mean something if WW were still making games.

Maybe its just some sort of menu for EVA. And those little boxes on the ends are things he can tap on to look at info.

I think Warranto is on the right track. Blueprints of the nuclear strike beacon. The three lines that meet in the middle have a center line marking like blueprints have.

I knew i'd seen it in other places:

<http://img376.imageshack.us/img376/5396/ahathereyouarern4.jpg>

This is the cover of a book i bought ages ago, it was published in 2001, and as you can see the cover contains the same thing as what appears in the renegade menu.

So i'm doubting it's the ion cannon schematics
