<http://www.renegadecentral.com/tutorials.htm>

Those are the only 2 tutorials I've ever made. The bot drops one is prolly the only one anyone would care about. The objects.ddb one was pretty much for back when that was the basic server side stuff. Back when it wasn't as advanced.

If someone could convert my VIS tutorial, I'd really appreciate it. If someone can, I can firstly edit the original post because now I realize there are a bunch of stupid boxes in the text from word that are mostly dashes, double quotes, or bullets.

YSL, your tutorial used to be on renhelp.co.uk, but I suddenly noticed that the site is no longer there (which is pretty sad since it had QUITE a lot of useful tutorials). I can convert your tutorial into a Word document for you if you want, but is there anything special I need to know or do you want me to just put all of the text in there with the images placed properly?

Renhelp is still there its just at this site- <http://renhelp.laeubi-soft.de/> - the .co.uk domain name is offline.

I don't think there's anything special you need to know. Just make sure to include the addendums as well!

I'm going to go edit all the boxes out of the text now.

Edit: Thanks Sn1per!

I'd help if you'd move to a CSS based layout for your site rather than tables.

msg me on MSN if you need any help converting them to HTML

MSN: gbull6142@yahoo.com

Or just go here to learn it yourself:

<http://www.w3schools.com/html/default.asp>

It will literally take you less than an hour to learn how to code in basic html.

You need to reupload that layout with all the images uncompressed so they don't look like ass.

its a fucking tempo right now. the whole thing I'm recoding (to work with my CMS setup) and i don't feel like saving all of the images just to have to redo them later.

I can do HTML. we don't need a HTML guy anymore. CMS is leet and you don't need it.
