The greatest finish in the history of auto racing, with a still-frame at the end for proof.
Such a close finish I think it may have been staged by the promoters. Plus, both cars hit the outside wall in the final laps yet still manage to finish.

lol, NASCAR.

EDIT: Yeah, OK, that was rather spectacular.

lol aprime's a poser.

I didn't get to see that race... when was it? The upload date was 16 May but that doesn't really mean it was this year or anything.

I didn't know that race car drivers were called pilots.

Well look at it this way. In less than five minutes this thread has helped to make you a more knowledgeable and well rounded human.

No, it has merely caused a mild disappointment following the discovery that the thread is about automobiles and not about aircraft. Common usage of the word "pilot" refers to the operator of a flying machine, even though it may be used as a synonym for "driver."

they Tide I would say, that orange/white car must have been in on something.

Will post a video of the Red Bull air-race if I take the video camera, planes flying about 20m from the ground at over 200mph passing through gates only a meter or so wider than the plane, should be good.

Wow, you must not have a pulse. I can think of many ways to describe that finish and "mildly disappointing" doesn't fit for me. That's fucking awesome or damn I think I've got a woody seem more appropriate. I feel sorry for anyone who may try to keep you entertained.
