For years I have thought the brotherhood of Nod was just that, "Nod". Being that GDI is short for Global Defence Initiative, and Nod isn't short for anything, it's just Nod.

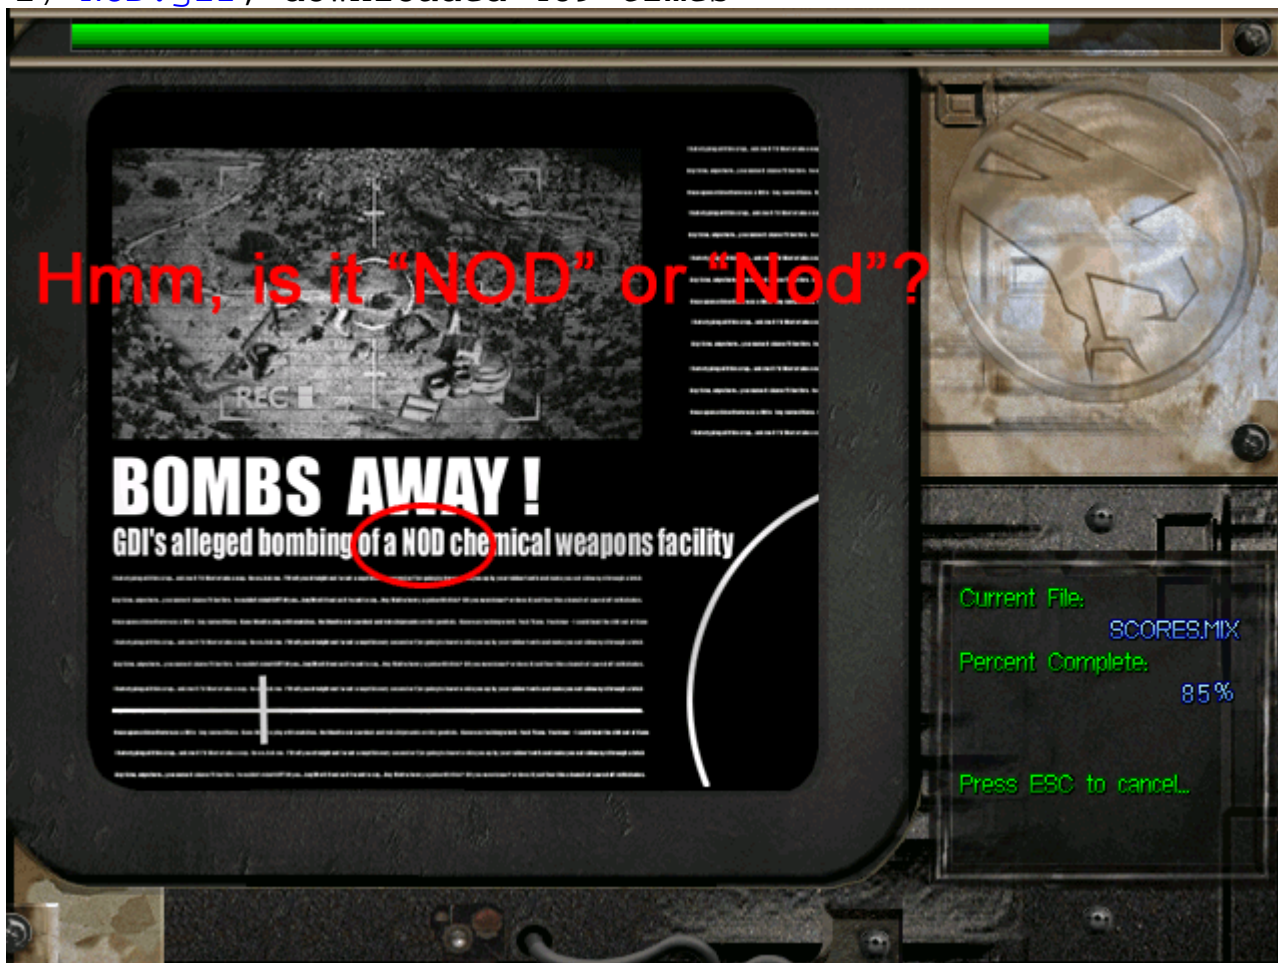

However I noticed this today whilst reinstalling tiberian sun on a new hard drive..

see attached.

Please discuss and add various other "proof" of the correct way to type Nod/NOD.

They use both Nod and NOD in the games. Since it's not an acronym though it seems more likely that "NOD" is just a typo.

There are several conflicts of information like this, i.e. "CABAL" and "CABAAL".

On the Tib Sun CD's, it's also spelled NOD. In other words: ACK got owned?

No, it's not an acronym. I don't see why that's hard to understand.

With CABAL, you can count the hyphenated term as one or two separate letters. But I think the majority of Tiberian Sun/Firestorm has it as CABAL.

Whom I just defeated as Nod, by the way. Gonna attempt GDI tomorrow.

Maybe they got the idea from the scrolling text at the beginning of Star Wars. It's not the Death Star, it's THE DEATH STAR!

Actually, I really hope someone from Westwood goes on record revealing that they stole the capital letters from Star Wars, along with the Mammoth Mk II.

In the missions, (M11 to be specific) one of the announcements throughout the temple say m11dsgn_dsgn0091i1evac_snd.wavComputer Assisted Biologically Augmented Lifeform Damaged, Please shutdown all non-essential operations which would lead to believe it's actually "CABAL" and not "CABAAL".

The sound file to prove: m11dsgn_dsgn0091i1evac_snd.wav

That screenshot is obviously a news feed. How does GDI or it's friendly media know how Nod is REALLY suppose TO be CAPITALIZED? For ALL we KNOW they ASSUME Nod is NOD because THEY assume THAT like GDI it IS an ACRONYM, when IN reality IT is NOT.

Making a correction is not necessarily making a big deal out of it. He's simply correcting a common error, so that people can learn from their mistakes and spell it properly. The ones who get all pissy because he's correcting them are the ones making the big deal out of it.

So Dave doesn't make a big deal of the whole your/you're thing?

he does it purely to start this type of conversation, the sad thing is we all (myself included) sit here and give him his sick pleasure, he could be doing worse things I suppose...

Hey, I'll correct your/you're mistakes. It's an annoying mistake that shouldn't even be an issue. It just requires people to think for a fucking second before they type out whatever they feel like. Like z310's signature says, in a text-based world, spelling and grammar are important. Not the opposite that so many people try to claim. Plus, what can correcting your mistakes hurt? It takes you 5 seconds to correct a mistake that could plague your language skills for a long time. Companies won't hire people who can't pay attention to the smallest details. Those are what count.
