that is cused by the RenegadeServer.exe from CP1 for ome reason or another, go back to the one that came with the FDS And it will work again

NR seems to have this problem too with loading the FDS...

ghost wrote on Tue, 29 August 2006 07:58 Just use another bot. That one is old.

it is not the bot causing the problem even if he swapped to NR or BR, he would still have these issues well if you look at his second screenshot the server cant make a game channel, so something is wrong in his server.ini or svrcfg_cnc.ini files, probably server.ini.

Check the nickname your using is not in use, that your using the right password, and your serial is valid.

EDIT: And please upload any new images as attachments here, not on imageshack, because imageshack resizes them so you cant read it properly, which makes it harder for us to help you

Delete RenegadeServer.exe and rename RenegadeServer.exe.bak to RenegadeServer.exe its a bug in the RenegadeServer.exe that came with SSCP1 the17doctor wrote on Thu, 31 August 2006 11:54there is nothing wrong with what you have shown us, it is working fine it isn't i had the same problem with my bot, it would get to there and exit.

there is no bug, nightma instead of using the function shell

use shellexecute EG:

ShellExecute(GetDesktopWindow(), "open",
"c:\westwood\renegade\server\renegadeserver.exe", NULL,
"c:\westwood\renegade\server", SW_SHOWNORMAL);
it works fine for me and i have cp1

why did it break though when moving to CP1?

i dont't know, but i think the new renegadeserver.exe needed a file in its own directory and windows was only letting it access stuff from the folder it was executed. it did work if you just double clicked on it?

if so you need to specify the folder it should run in.

i have cp2 and i have the same problem, but with shellexecute it works fine
