Click the small arrow at the top of the players collum. It will put them in order of largest to smallest and vice versa if you click it again.

No, when you do that, it changes to the capacity of the server, he wants it to actually sort by how many people are in the server.

BTW: IDK

If so, it's not possible.

If you knew how to hack your Renegade exe, it might be possible...

Or some other file, don't know.

Still, would indeed be nice to have that. Filters too. (no empty/full/passworded servers, for example)

but the point is, that when you use a modified .exe you wont be able to play online, but for a TS its a good idea

I don't think renguard will be a problem, I'm sure crimson wouldn't have a problem adding the checksum of this modified Renegade to the exclusion list.

I was thinking of some how just switching the position of "total players" "and players in game" then just let ren to sort them. It may look weird but it will work.
