Killing bots is not a good way to get better. Bots die way to easily and are not intelligent like humans. Don't give up on online play if you keep dieing or losing all the time. No one is ever the best right away and everything takes time.

You would be playing a lot longer to get better by playing against bots.

Here are some questions I have though:

1. How many kills do you usually get on average in a game online?
 2. How many deaths do you usually get on average in a game online?
 3. What size server do you play on?
 4. Compared to the size of the server and the amount of people in that server on average, what number are you usually on average in the score list?
 5. Do you have excessive lag? Little lag?
 6. How long have you been playing?
 7. How many hours a day do you usually play?

if you want to get good you have to join cw.cc and play clanwars against good clans - you will get raped continuously but as long as you have the right attitude people will be happy to help you, give you advice and even play with you to help you improve.

I am not by any means a good player in comparison to a lot of guys on cw.cc but just add me on msn: themexicanpirate@yahoo.com and will be happy to play a few games and give you a few pointers if you are interested.
