Xwis (they took over WOL) doesn't have a working ladder so you'll never get a rank until they ever fix it. Those with a rank are persons that played when it still worked.

Another question is how are your recomendations tallied? Are they tallied form sever to server or over all the servers?

each server stores their recommendations etc locally, so if you have 20 recs on the tk2 server, it does not mean you have 20 recs on the n00bstories server. If you want to make your recs higher you should try and always play in the same server.

Also many servers have their own internal ranking system.
