I was playing today (from about 2pm until roughly 3:15) and as the map started usual fair everyone rushes, everyone dies, and then people start mass producing vehicles like nobodies buisiness. During the mass production phase someone asked for some money so thinking nothing of it i throw them 100 (raymar or some name like that not sure) and about 30 seconds after doing that i buy an armor and get a message.

You must be running renguard to play on this server...

It hasn't said that to me in almost 2 months...

so it keeps spamming that message so fast that i can't respond and before i can say anything i'm kicked - ohh well reconnect it does it again - so i reconnect and quickly donate someone 100 to show i'm running renguard and.... it says renguard must be running to do this, so i minimize game and in bottom right hand of screen is that little R and when i click it i see welcome GStricto, you've connected to nOObstories (yadda yadda yadda)...

so my question is, why the heck did renguard just stop working mid-game, has anyone else had this problem? (no its not system not firewall nothing like that i fixed those problems a long time ago it just started randomly today) I've no clue whats going on so if anyone has an idea go for it i'm all ears

-edit and yes i haven't made an account until today because i never had a need to but i have no idea what happened now

Renguard isn't 100% reliable, thats why it isn't required in all servers.

IRT to guy above me: WTF...

IRT to topic:
Maybe just a RenGuard Server end problem, mine randomly cut on me too today, so shrug Who knows?

well hopefully it was just a little server glitch of some sort, i guess i'll try again tomorrow but after all the crap i've had to put up with renguard in the past if it messes up again i'll just quit playing servers that run it- its just too much effort n00bstories and most other servers do not REQUIRE renguard, but you cannot use some of the commands if you are not running it.
