Im having problems with my direct X.

Any game using directX 9 will not run, including renegade with e directX patch.

It currently says that directX is intalled and is version 9.0c but there is something wrong with it. If i try to roll back to an eirlier version it skips the actual install and says its finished.

I got another installer and it was seeming to work untill it encountered an error and aborted, i looked at the report files and could make nothing of it.

Im attaching my dxiag and dxerrir.log files if it could help someone find the problem.

Sorry for being so vauge, im half asleep.

uninstall directx, reinstall your drivers for your video card, then reininstall directx

I didn't think you could, although I could be very wrong.

This looks like a file permissions error. For some reason the account running the DirectX installer cannot access the file C:\WINDOWS\Microsoft.NET\DirectX for Managed Code\1.0.2902.0\Microsoft.DirectX.xml

How you fix it I dont know.
What operating system are you running on?

Windows XP home.

This is a laptop if that means anything...

If you cant find the uninstaller, try looking at the contents of your directx folder (search for it). Then reinstall your video cards drivers.

Make sure your logged into an admin account when your trying to install / uninstall things, user accounts cannot access a lot of folders needed for installing DirectX and other things.

I presume you already looked in add/remove programs and add/remove windows components?

Could it be because the file doesnt exist? I looked there and there is no such file.

Edit, If anyone has the file, could you send it to me?
