lol Merovingian

Well...lol

Download and install Gmax/Renx and Renegadepublic tools.

model your own rocket/proj and texture it however you want with Renx, than export it.

Afterwards use LE, go under munitions - ammo - and edit whatever, change the w3d model to the one you exported(w3d)

Export and save presets or map(presets if you want it to effect the whole game)

I'd read tutorials on how to sue Le/gmax or whatever

You can find a lot of them here <http://renhelp.laeubi-soft.de/index.php?limit=no>

There is actually only a few people here that actually tend to help people on a regular basis. You just insulted one of them.

You are the person asking for help, yet you call the people capable of helping you a nerd. And at the same time even managed to make yourself look like an immature newbie with your "lool" comment.

Thanks for defending me but i can look after myself.

The thing was that sentence never made any sense what-so-ever.

If you had of restated it to make sense then maybe i could have helped you?

If it doesn't make sense then just don't respond, or at least ask for a rephrase.
