Roleplay 2 many of you have probably heard about, if not it is a good time to take a look at all that it has to offer. I have been putting together the last few additions for this beta for a few months and all alone, although i do work quite fast in my opinion.

The map doesn't have cnc mode (atleast yet) but can make for a good map to just fool around on, chat with buddies, deathmatch, or do roleplaying games. There is really no goal yet other then to mess around, but that's the most fun thing to do in a game if you have no limits.

There is alot more planned, so even if this isen't up to par there is always time to sculpt it into a real city eventually with all you would expect to see in an ordinary one. Anyways, i have exported the final cut of this beta and it has been sent to canadaCdn who is going to try to put together a mix format of it so we can all try it out ingame together. This will be fully public so no need to ask etc.

Here is some pictures of the latest cut.

Interior for stripclub.

And a bunch of New world pics.

I will announce the beta soon as it becomes available.

Vis doesn't really help an open map like this, It probably would actually slow it down more then it would help.

Yea i have plans to eventually move nearly all the interiors into the worldspace so i can spruce up the map with plant life, and telephone posts and whatnot. This is in progress while CanadaCdn is making the current release so there is no hold up on the map.

I am in hopes that some of the more experienced scripters and such could help with stuff like setting up slot machines with a sound/animation, or working with other features like animations for a crane, and the more advanced stuff.

Looking good, texturing tip, giving textures a second pass with "multiply and add" well add a very nice detail to the texture (Like the roads).

You have to get a hex editor and hack renegade.exe I can't remember what line its on. And I think if you make this change you won't be able to play on line. But I honestly can't remember if thats the case.

Yes a second pass would be nice but that also requires having another texture being rendered on that pass, which also means you end up with more repetitive textures since they would all use the same pass2. I think some things just gotta be plain, look at any game you play you see textures tile regardless of how many passes, or what effects are on those.

Otherwise if you can, show me a picture of it with a normal road texture just to compare the visual detail. I am sure no matter what there will always be a repetitive look to it, so not much can be done unless i made dozens of road textures with different details in each.

This beta is near to release, i estimate 1-2 weeks max.

Quote:Also what server will this be on?

There is no set server for it, though a few people already have plans to host dedicated servers for it.

And the file size i decided we didn't really need to have the textures as tga, so all them are Dds now and that alone took down the filesize down to what it is now.

I'm sure it wont be only 65 mb when the level edit is fully done, so it may get back to 100, but i doubt we will see the 400mb mix's anymore for this map.

The current beta keeps crashing on me whenever I play it for a little amount of time, sometimes just a few seconds in a plane is enough for a crash. That, while the previous beta2 worked fluently without stutters. I just hope that this version (which also seems a lot smaller, estimated size 80mb) does not have this problem so I can finally have some fun in the extended map

Can't wait for the new beta

If you are getting crashes, please read the readme that came with it.

It tells you to remove all previous Rp2 maps (Beta2, GT2, GT?) and their .thu files as well for beta3 to work.

This map will make beta3 look like a chunk of shit though. The framerate on this map is excellent.

Also I noticed that RP2 only has 2 civilian vehicles, my mod has 10 civilian vehicles, one of which is the same SUV as your's (you guys must have also got your models from the same site <http://www.turbosquid.com/Search/Index.cfm>). Yea most of the high contrast comes just from the bloom, but i tend to like it, and sometimes i have gotten the see through stuff but seems to only be at the same time i get the light source bug that causes it to move.

Quote:Also I noticed that RP2 only has 2 civilian vehicles, my mod has 10 civilian vehicles, one of which is the same SUV as your's (you guys must have also got your models from the same site <http://www.turbosquid.com/Search/Index.cfm>). Yea it is sad to say that there isn't many vehicles in total let alone civ ones. I usually take what i can get given they have a set amount of polygons and a decent texture (usually go for photorealistic over anything) so getting them can be tricky.

I took a look at the pack you sent, and i can only see one Castrol car that might be salvaged since all the rest are ranging from 30-80,000 polygons, and most have no texture at all. I don't quite want 2 cars to equal the entire maps polygon count lol. I try to stick with anything under 3000, so its quite hard to do anything with the others.

What? The "Brain Gun" is just the melee powerup. It's not used in the upcoming map, as all infantry start with melee. As for sounds, yes. The ferarri sounds are back in Prebeta3. Prebeta3 was a bit of a fuckup, as everything was in a mess from Napalmic leaving. It was still better than beta2 though.

Well, there will be no AI in the map, as it can mess up some server bots, and lags some people. Vehicles can be purchased all around the map at designated zones, but I left the Warfactory and airstrip in, for people to do c130. The vehicle factories can only buy delorians, though.

Still in my opinion bots dont lag unless you abuse them, like putting tons in each place. I still think it needs bots, but i am not the one doing level edit so i don't have full say on what he does lol.

Stuff like custom scripts would be really helpful as alot of the stuff i do want seems impossible to get ingame because of the complexity of making them work etc. Things like mini games that actually either pay you or reward you in specific ways, like say you have basketball weapon and you fire it into a hoop it would trigger a message that you got one in, this would be good to make basketball courts with for mini games lol. As well as having stuff like purchasable health that only is used when you go in that slot and click. Or stuff like advanced slot machines with animations on cylinders that would somehow trigger upon the cylinders lining up in a specific rotation, (3 bells/3 7s etc)then having a sound play and giving you your money. As well having new water scripts to enable people to still travel into the water with a vehicle but at the same time use a boat. That alone i am pretty sure cant be done but its a hope lol. These are just concepts in my mind that would make the gameplay more enjoyable, otherwise its just a huge deathmath with cars.

There is still lots of time though so i dont really worry about these aspects.

Just make them spawn under a command, we don't want the game to lag because of bots. If you put bots in don't forget to do pathfind.

If you guys don't have a computer that can do a pathfind really fast I do, I did level 10's pathfind on my new computer in about 7min and that level is 2000 by 2000.

This level is about 50000 by 50000. There is no way in hell I am going to do pathfind.

I think I could probably get that done in about 2 hours and 50 min or something like that (in the end it really matters how much open space there is).

Yeah, but pathfind eats almost a gb of RAM on my machine for a 7500x7500 map, a 50000x50000 map would probably need about 6 gb or more... even if you got all that with virtual memory, it would take a LOT longer as it has to keep going back to the pagefile to find its data.....

simply put a script zone somewhere (marked hopefully so you cant activate them accidentally or not find where to activate them) that enables all the bots. no need to have dif versions.

Simply put some path find blockers around the pathfind human generator. That way, you can still have them run around a bit, in an enclosed area, but it shouldn't kill your computer, I think thats how it works anyways, its been a while.

Okay even though I have over 8 GB of RAM here is how you could do it, do his idea, and then create your own waypaths with innate enabled connecting these areas. If it is done right they will follow the waypaths on their own.

But as a side note if you have no pathfind at all do not add bots, as much fun as it is to shoot ai that are stuck against walls.

Course you do...

Do you know how the human generators work? Or how the path blockers work?

The human generators are where pathfind is calculatedly from, and the path blockers restrict the area where pathfind is generated. So I make the assumption that it won't use as much ram, because the area that is been processed is limited.

Its quite possible I'm wrong, but I don't think I am.

Haven't tried this without pathfind but you could try it. Give the bots the script m08_goto_star. Or maybe it's m03. It makes the bot go directly after a human controlled player (no matter what team). I used it to make some very deadly Hum-Vee bots in my map Mutant's Revenge.

Yea i do remember a long time ago Napalmic had started setting up the pathfinding and he did have a ton of areas that had pathfind blockers as you would put it, The areas in green were the areas bots could go, where as red was a totally restricted area for the bots far as i can remember atleast. I am sure it wont kill anyones computer by having just a few bots in seperate locations itself that cannot stray. Like having them inside interiors only wouldnt take much if you made your own pathfinding blockers?

Yea with a map this size that is a huge problem, where as most people make a map based on the 300 metre view range, as well as having an open area for the bots to explore, where as roleplay 2 has things from tiny curbs, to bus stops, benches, buildings etc that it would have to dodge. That's kinda why i think we should only have them indoors just to avoid having problems. This can still simulate that they are in their working environment and thats where they belong.

Pathfind would keep them form getting stuck on any of that stuff, the only problem is the amount of time it would take to generate.

make bots walk in a straight line off buildings and give them extremely bloody death explosions!!
even if you have to do pathfinding for this you only need to do the top of some buildings.

Yay I got credit, now I am extra happy!

But seriously now:

Actually the flash light took me 2 days to work right, so I made sure only to let one other good mod use it.

And you will need to install multi-scripts loader to use some of the more advanced features of RP2, if you have a problem with this, talk to Jonwil.

Well as Jerad pointed out it does involve using 3 textures and one of these is custom and doesn't come with ren either as to why it looks a bit different. If your familiar with renx , i can Pm you some screenshots of the UVw mapping args etc, and textures used. The reflect within is SpecularmapZ.tga, though that appears to be the older release so i am not certain its the same texture.

Otherwise i do agree sewers aren't dark enough, but i had to show the pics somehow lol, but also being more murky would be nice though its just hard to get the effect your going for, i am hoping maybe for a script zone much like renalert that makes it look tinted as you go under also.

Anyways, i uploaded some more progress pics , so here they are.

I will redo the script to be activated by zone today (it is being done by custom, and would be way more simple if done by zone).

If more then one person needs to know how the water is setup ill just post it here anyways.

First you need these 3 textures

Then make a plane, Press M and setup 2 passes, do the 2nd pass changes first, then when done that apply the stage 1 texture and its settings.

BumpRotation=0.3

he mean a pic of the muzzle flahes (when in use) and the hand pos when firing. make a short avi to make us all happy edit:drawing, check out the fps in the last ss

also, would it be possible to dazzle the trees so they look less like two planes with alpha-channeling?

First you need these 3 textures

Then make a plane, Press M and setup 2 passes, do the 2nd pass changes first, then when done that apply the stage 1 texture and its settings.

i havent this prog maybe you pls just made full working files archive and post them :)pls renhelp.net texture tut there get the textures by using xcc on always in ren/data and copying all the textures as tga (takes a while, but is tonnes better than downloading those packs with half of the textures and doing this extracts all the games images and your pkgs images that were historically/now in the data folder) now you just have to find the textures in the the big pile of gunk, skins, and images that dont even work...

The problem now is that i have already explained every step of doing the bump mapping/reflecting and even the textures required to do it, and yet you ignore that.

Go back to page 6 and look , save the 3 textures as Tga and insert into renx folder then do as the pics show.

Really all you need is XCC mixer like many have already suggested, and then you can extract all the stuff from roleplay2 itself. The version you have is older so i probably did something different with "experimentation" being the key word lol.

As well the renhelp.net tutorial is no different then the way i set it up, other then i use different arg settings/textures.

Quote:like is there tanks and what is your objective

or are they just big maps

It is a very diverse map and the goal is to just have fun, death match, roleplay, cnr you name it. The actual concept on the other hand is based on Gta san andreas, so i want somewhat that style of gameplay in the end, where you buy all your stuff seperate, you work at jobs,gamble in casinos,steal cars and sell them off for money, and many other things that involve working through stuff to get rewards. Not everything is done in terms of modding though its getting there. The map itself changes by the week , as i add new buildings, worldspaces, textures/items etc.

now all you need are some cop cars at the police station that spawn a neutral cop when you steal one of them...or an a10 if you steal a hummer. too bad you would probably have to do pathfinding. oh well.

To be honest i had no idea canadaCDN added this gun to the map, and to top it off it was found on Turbosquid.com/or one of those free sites and i am sure of it, so you should go tell them to take it off. The gun will be removed asap if that's the problem, otherwise it was a mistake and we do tend to use things that are downloaded. (were not professionals btw, so we don't create many of our own vehicles/weapons)

So don't jump on others backs just because there was a mistake made.

Hey, it's the APB team. Anything even REMOTELY close to something they have it's stolen.

Take AR for example. I seem to remember a certain someone whining about AR having a few traits that APB had.

Am I the only one getting sick of APB (Mainly Chronojam) whining about EVERY OTHER MOD?! It's getting tiring, and they only stopped whining about Reborn because they pretty much had to.

Seriously, all these mods make no profit. Why should you even care? It's an AK-47, for the most part, they look alike.

Let's say, hypothetically, he DID steal it. How on EARTH does this affect you, hm? It doesn't. Not one little bit. You don't make money, rp2 doesn't make money. Now, if this were something that involved money, then you'd have every right to be suspicious. But it doesn't, so what's your problem?

Oh, and by the way, rp2 doesn't steal stuff from other mods. They may take stuff from a public 3d model hosting stuff, but that's what they're there for. How hilarious, you're ranting on about it being yours, when in fact, there's a good chance it isn't.

Again, even if I'm wrong, and you DID make these models, then who cares? It doesn't affect you one little bit.

I think it's just the APB team's special time of the month...

That was a bit harsh cabal but I think the reason people care so much about possibly stolen models is the fact that they aren't getting credit for their work.

The outstanding question here though is if it is theirs or not, we'll find out when Canadacdn gets online I guess...

Anyways, I highly doubt he would just go into APB's always folder and take out the model and stick it in RP2. I'd be willing to bet money that some asshole stole it from APB, stuck it on turbosquid or some other site, Rp2 blundered into it. It looks good, Canadacdn takes it and uses it. Ohshit, that looks exactly like APB's! Who's fault would it be anyway? Nobody knows because it's the person who put it on the site in the first place. From any angle it's just one big mix up...

If it's theirs I see no reason not to apologize and take it off but if its not then its going to be interesting to prove how it isn't.

Yeah, I suppose so. But, rp2 hasn't stolen anything from other mods. Now, I honestly think, that this was gotten from turbosquid.

Either you BOTH got it from there, or APB made it and someone put it up there on turbosquid.

If the latter, then whine to that person who did it. Not us.

Napalmic had given me that model and told me that it was a different one. I'll remove it if you want, but geez. Talk about overreacting.

You APB snots didn't give a flying fuck about Roleplay 2 before, an excellent map/mod for Renegade that has been in development for two years by just two people, and if an accident like this happens, guess what? Shit hits the fan and you want the Rp2 team dead or something. I bet not a single one of you APBers took the time to look through this thread to see all the other original content in Roleplay 2.

I'll remove the model.. but I mean, damn. I wouldn't care if anyone took something from Rp2 and used it so long as they credited us.

Wouldn't it benefit the entire Renegade community if different mod teams worked together instead of bickering over stupid shit?

For example, if this AK-47 is indeed from APB, can't we at RP2 just use it with credit to you, since it is in fact a good model, with the condition being that if you saw something that we had, for example a vehicle or something, you could use it in your mod so long as you credit us?

Wouldn't it benefit the Renegade community as a whole if we could all just get along and share stuff, giving credit where credit is due? After all, aren't you (any modder in general) making these mods for the community? So who cares how certain parts of the mod get out there, as long as they get out there (with credit of course)?

Genuine permission; I know it's not as eloquent as I can be and was rather blunt and to-the-point but sometimes that's required of the situation. I was busy at the time but wanted to quickly put an end to this and help both mods move on.

As it stands, we do indeed need a new AK47; but so it doesn't seem we're just giving out the old garbage, I suggested RP2 also benefit from our new M16 as well. We'll have to see how that goes, though.

Lol, what is the world getting into? I get called "crying" for apologising. Let's just say this, you guys got it from another site, I'm sure Jerad2142 would have played APB once or twice or seen most of the screenshots and notice the similarities between the two (in fact, he did) and not put it in and instead let us know about it. Just a simple one line, you know, it could have saved us all the grief.

Seriously, it's just a matter of principles, I just don't like the idea of anybody's hardwork being taken away and not get any credits for it. You don't spend hours and days to just get your work all copied/taken and given any credits. I really want and hope this mod can be as good as APB or Reborn, it shows a lot of promise.

First of all WinDos is a 100% made up program made for the sole purpose of that billboard. 2nd, what is perm? 3rd, the games in the shops, omg liek we have a picture of the game box. Yea i personally dont think its against any law if i get a picture thats already on the net or having someone scan in box photos etc. I am not making any money on this, so on the other side of the argument i probably could get sued. The thing is, i highly doubt that will happen, secondly "spooof" ads are really common and i never hear of those people being sued for making them.

So if it came down to it, i couldn't say weather or not all my textures are to "legal standards" but ill wait till some lawyer comes in with his internet lawbook before i jump to conclusions.

Anyways, thanks for the permission for using the gun, trust me i always put credit where due, hence all the signs in the map with peoples ren names on them, and an extensive readme that will follow with the map release. There is never a shortage of credit, heck even acks name is in the map a few times, so regaurdless of who it is they still have their credit even if they just helped me with a simple texture process.

Hardcore "Roleplayers" usually do stuff like getting "Jobs" and buying "Houses" Which is almost the intention of this map. A lot of people just use the map to just plain mess around, many things to do. Usually you just see people running around, talking and doing some sort of game, there's plenty of different things you could do such as "Hide and seek" which is actually pretty fun.

Goztow wrote on Mon, 19 February 2007 06:23Can someone please explain me the concept of RPG in Renegade again? I'm a bit lost on that.

The term "Roleplay" or "RPG" (role-playing game, not rocket propelled grenade) is used somewhat loosely here, especially with this map, Roleplay 2. If you are not already aware, the previous map made by Blazea58 was Roleplay.mix. It had a small city or 2, a car dealership, some houses, a hospital, etc. The point of this, as someone explained, was so that people who wanted to play an RPG could do so, with jobs and cars and homes and such. However the typical RPG in Renegade has grown a smidge more than that in the past years. RPG can now often refer to a game where people are just messing around, such as trying things that ought not to be tried (like driving vehicles inside buildings, or attempting outrageous jumps with vehicles (as you see in my motorcycle movie(yes, parenthesis within parenthesis within parenthesis))). RPG can also be used for people who just wanna come to hang out somewhere online other than AIM or a forum. Other RPG games can be used to make movies (as I do, btw, please look for upcoming movie about ninjas).

Now you're probably thinking, well why would you want to do all that in a game that's meant for sniping and base-destroying? There are games for that, right?

Well you're right about there being other games for it, however sometimes not all your friends have games, and sometimes these games even cost a monthly fee to play on (aka MMO). Also, sometimes the standard, shoot kill explode gameplay of Renegade, to some people, can get a bit monotonous after a while. For example, me. Don't get me wrong, I love the occasional competitive game, but after a long while of it, it just grows tiresome. Plus I hate dealing with n00b teammates who use up all their money on a n00bjet, a beacon, and a mammoth tank, rush in by themselves, think they can take on the world, and end up dying, losing 3500 credits in the process. To some, RPG is like breaking the rules. Like I said above, for example, just messing around and seeing which little bumps in the map make the best for spectacular jumps.

RPG is all in the beholder's eye. It is what you make of it. To some, it's fun. To others, like you Goztow, you may find it quite boring. (Nothing personal, just making a statement based on your posts.)

About the work: Thanks, we like it too!

If there is even 4 people in the mod can be tremendously fun, but more people = more fun.

Yea this map isn't quick full of gimmicks yet but perhaps in time we will have some more intresting things to do. As my skill/inspiration for stuff gets higher, i always want to make more impressing things for the map itself. So what i have done now is made an asian temple which is just an exterior shell which will lead you into the dojo(replica matrix dojo) as well as other rooms just for standard living.

So what i am showing now is just the work on the dojo itself, the exterior is done but still being worked on textures. I wanted it to look as close as possible to the temple seen in the matrix, so i had to add alot more polygons to do so.

Still only comes to 1309 polygons, and has just a few more details to do in terms of prop models.

Its not exact but close enough

Something we used to do in the original roleplay map was hunt down players, they had to hide and the hunter had to well, hunt them.

i used to have fun with that cause they could hide ANYWHERE on the map, volcano, airport, city

1, city 2, under the bridge, and if you killed some one else other then the target, then you lose. and the prey wins.

yea, kinda dumb if you think about it, but still fun.

Its just the same exact thing in tiberium evolution if anyone remembers that mod,(2002-2003) and it had the phase tank that could lift vehicles, well i forgot about it till recently i brought it up and well now we got it for repair gun simply put, its not secret

You're talking about the gravity gun, yeah. It uses the ammo model from Tiberian Evolution X12's Microwave tank which could lift vehicles slightly. The roleplay 2 one has been changed around a bit leveledit-wise to make it work better.

Being realistic and knowing the pimped grav gun will be much more of a use in a RP styled map, i won't find i a problem to share what i have so far. Just give me a call when interested.

Im talking about sound, and the cosmetic part, the rest of our guns are already virtually the same.

I have the urge to spam this topic with funny situations done with it, but ill resist.

edit: lol dammit, fixed a typo wich wasnt a typo after all

It's quite hard to run this map with an outdated computer/graphics card. This map is by far not for the average computer and more so is setup for people with lots of ram/good cards. Not much can be done about the lag, other then turning down your graphics detail.

And crow , credit is all given in the readme which will be released with the map. As well lots of signs and billboards have been created soley for the purpose of giving credit back to the authors.

And slave why not post some pics, it is roleplay related anyways and your grav gun has some neat effects. The most important thing is having the gun not effect fps so much, otherwise the blue glow is nice and adds a bit more realism i guess.

Trust me, the next map will run a lot smoother. We removed all the major causes of lag in prebeta3, which were the interiors, and we moved them all to seperate worldspaces to eliminate the lag, without losing any interiors.

Yup

Which is why it's a ton o fun to have the grav gun and flip people around.

One problem I noticed during internal beta testing, is that they don't go that high up. I think it's because they're too heavy. But I don't know if that's what it is. If it is, could you make them lighter? Kthx.

yea i wish there was a way to avoid the vehicles from blowing up but i dont think there is at all

Either way it is still pretty cool to use and has some practice uses such as flipping other peoples vehicles back over for them or getting them unstuck, or just being an ass and tossing them around lol.

Anyways , i added some extra details to the fish tank such as swimming pleco fish also , the map is all exported and were just gonna do some tests before anything official.

if you have 3dsmax, any chance you could use one of their modifiers to animate the water flowing out of the tank when you shoot it.

Lol, would indefinitely need a new script, but when you make a bullethole on the tank the water drains down to that level, and a custom bullethole with an emitter that stops when the water is at the right hieght. dought that ren supports it, but i know 3dsmax has a ragdoll script, you could do that to the seaweed inside so they sag when the water box is lowered.

Renegade could do it, but I don't want to be the one to put the time into it (I suppose you would have to break the tank into several different objects, so when one was shot that tank would no which one and therefore what height it was at, and then in could play an animation to the point of where that object was at. Each object would send a different custom to the tank when damaged, and only a lower custom could make the tank animate again). I think it would work something like that (a lot of scripting though).

nopol10 wrote on Fri, 23 March 2007 00:42 Why can't you just release it now?
It can not be released because I did scripting for RP2.

As you can see:

jonwil wrote on Mon, 19 March 2007 06:05 Changelog for scripts.dll 3.2:

Improvements to the glass shader and normal map shader (the normal map shader now actually WORKS)

Major improvements and cleanups to shaders.dll including better performance across the board. Anything you have heard about scripts.dll 3.2 being slower is a lie. Scripts.dll 3.2 may actually (on some graphics cards) be FASTER than stock renegade.

Complete rewrite of post process shader code (they are now called scene shaders)

Big changes to d3d8.dll and bhs.dll to go with the shaders.dll changes

Engine.cpp and shadereng.cpp are now split up into multiple files which means less code duplication and easier to manage code.

Cleaned up the way initialization of engine stuff and detection of if we are FDS or client is handled

Fixed a bug in the code for calculating CRC32

Numerous bug fixes to the shader code

Numerous bug fixes to the shader related rendering code (which, for example, calculates Tangent and Binormal numbers)

Proper fix for all the zbuffer issues (esp on ATI cards)

Numerous bug fixes to engine calls (formerly in engine.cpp)

Numerous bug fixes to various scripts

Numerous other bug fixes

Cleanups to the definition of TextureMapperClass

Cleanups to the definition of the classes that handle vertex and index buffers

New class for cubemap textures

Several functions for shaders.dll to use including ways to get the current projection matrix and light vector

Definition of TextMessageEnum which will make it easier to see (when inside hooks like the chat hook) what sort of message it is

Code in shaders.dll to spit out appropriate D3DPERF calls for PIX to pick up

Code to spit out various debugging messages at various times

int Get_Harvester_Preset_ID(int Team); //Get the harvester preset ID for this team

bool Is_Harvester_Preset(GameObject *obj); //Checks if the object has the same preset used for the harvesters

Improvements to a whole bunch of math code (mainly used by shaders.dll) so that if your CPU has SSE, it will use

SSE instructions. This will make it faster.

slight improvements to the win32 build process and compiler options for all projects in the scripts.dll and bhs.dll Changed the ExpVehFac scripts to call Enable_Engine on flying units that are flying in (makes the rotor blades spin)
small typo fix to Reborn_IsDeployableMech Fixed a bug to do with the nickname exploit fixes that caused the LFDS to crash when people joined Working multi-sample anti-alias
Changes so that certain non-shaders code in shaders.dll gets run even with "shaders off" ("shaders off" basically means no loading databases and no creating shader objects)
Moved large parts of the custom hud code to shaders.dll
Added a hud.ini keyword to disable kill messages added new engine call to send a particular integer to the custom HUD code of a given player from a script
Crashdumps are now output with sequential filenames much like screenshots
Changed the bhs.dll configuration dialog to be more consistent with the other configuration dialogs
Added new console command to check if a given client has a given file in their data folder (e.g. a map)
Fixed bugs with NPatches to make them work again
Big improvements to the turret lag fix fixed a bug with the cmsgp and cmsgt console commands Added hud.ini keywords so you can have more armor types that are unqiushable fixed a typo with Set_Obj_Radar_Blip_Shape_Player and Set_Obj_Radar_Blip_Color_Player fixed a bug causing the LFDS to crash anytime a player disconnected without properly leaving the server Added debug output to d3d8.dll to print if any functions are being called that don't have implementations (which either indicates a bug or some weird case that is only ever used once in a blue moon or on specific weird hardware)
Bug fixes to JFW_Vehicle_Lock

New scripts for Roleplay 2 written by Jerad Gray
New shaders.dll hook called when a shutdown is happening (as opposed to a device reset)
New shaders.dll hooks for the HUD code
New shaders.dll hooks for direct3d related stuff
New shaders.dll hook to pass the screen fade manager rendering through shaders.dll
Improvements to the way network stuff is sent by bhs.dll
Fixed a bug in the cut/copy/paste code for edit controls
Added a new engine call so that if you are inside the ::Killed event and were killed by C4 or beacon, you can get the C4GameObj or BeaconGameObj that did the killing and find out stuff about it.
Added a hud.ini keyword to change the registry key that the WOL URLs (network status, news etc) are read from Made 16 bit graphics mode work again
Fixed problems preventing single player from going past the first mission
Fixed it so that it wont crash when you alt-tab anymore

Also, we are looking into a fix to make Reborn_IsDeployableMech work that may get in for 3.2
And, NeoSaber is working on a new set of scripts for the RA:APB Nuke Silo that may get in for 3.2

Other than that, its mainly the final pieces of work on sdbedit.exe for the scene shaders plus a new example shaders.sdb file that need to be done before we release 3.2

And I suppose we will test it before we release it to you guys.

There are no purchase terminals. Instead, at different areas of the map (Such as the spawnpoint, and the military base) there are terminals that you can press and you get the unit pictured on it.

Just like in APB.
