1. choose a different server
2. do not disrespect moderators on it

Not swearing/insulting really is not THAT hard u know, u should give it a try.

Hasn't he seen your screenshots?!

I wouldn't let people make fun of you man, that's just not right! Just be glad there is such a friendly supporting group over here at renforums.

SSnipe, do you know what a period is? Perhaps any kind of punctuation?

I was told to stop harrassing players because they refuse to use spell-check but I still agree with you.

On topic! You know not to give BS to Mods, especially when you play there all the time. Now suffer the consequences.

On a different note, I have to agree that you tried to do the correct thing by standing up for yourself, for that you should feel good.

Take the advice of others and use a better server or apologise and dont be offensive to the Mod.

My advice for what its worth! Play elsewhere as there are still good servers out there.

A few mistakes is one thing but to be functionally retarded just because you are on the internet isn't.

Please leave spelling/grammar nitpicks out of these forums. The rules aren't there to be ignored.

Dosn`t matter what a Mod says to you, when it comes down to it, if they want you out, then they will provoke you into saying stuff that you shouldnt say.

You HAVE to respect a mod if you plan on playing in that server. If the mod treats you like shit then leave or ignore it. There is no other option, unless you know the admin, or other mods, your screwed.

Same can/should be said for grammatical rules.

But it's not the job of members to correct them.

If you think the mods there are abusing their power, go some other server, there are so many around...

You HAVE to respect a mod if you plan on playing in that server.

Respect is gained and not demanded.

Thats the problem with a lot of small servers that are individually run. Most, not all, who run them, want to be in charge and have no personal skills and very little management skills. So when something goes "tits up" they ban you.

It is similar to when the young boy asks for a game of football and the owner of the ball says NO. When asked why not, he replies "because its my ball and I dont want you playing". He really meant that as the ball/server belongs to him, that he can do what he wants. Well some of the Renegade servers are just the same.

Find a server that you truly enjoy playing in, abide by the rules and enjoy the game.
