Okay, it took me 2 freaking hours to figure this out! I accidentally made the thing with the colored arrows to make you move stuff left, right, up and such I made it go away.

I accidentally hit something when I went to go Ctrl+Z

HERE IS HOW TO FIX IT!!!!

Go to

- Go to customize tab at top.
- Click preferences
- Go to Viewpoints
- Look at the bottom of the window that pops up and see "Transform Gizmo" check the box next to it to turn it on.

THATS IT! Took me 2 freaking hours to find that!

Thanks for you're time.

Heh, I remember when I did that once, and I spent probably that much time trying to figure it out and gave up.

A good way to fix settings when you screw them up is just to create a new file and merge all your models n whatnot into it.

Yeah but settings that are tied to Gmax don't change when you do that.

You just press X on your keyboard and it'll return.

or if you really mess things up, or just want to start fresh use file reset. I use it alot for larger maps since they lag the viewport if you start a new file.
