I just realized that Petroglyph was made up of mostly westwood employees. So SWEAW is really (in employment) made by westwood. No wonder I thought I saw (some, not all) general elements in the game.

Random thoughts.

What if Petro is bought by EA, meeting the same fate as westwood?

What if CNC3 was made by the former WW employees?

EA has no interest in Petroglyph.

I don't think the same could be said about Sega (might take a few... Hundred years before they get the money, though) and Lucasarts.

I doubt Petroglyph will sell themselves to anybody. Most of them are the ones who felt Westwood was being sold out (which... I guess it literally was.) So it is more than likely they will have a strong desire to remain independent.

Yeah, that's old news, but what's new news is that at the end of January they announced a new RTS in the making. Read about it here:

Westwood didn't make Generals... And It really isn't all that like Generals.

Kind of ironic that Petroglyph is now going to be competing against a series that they started.
