Ok, this movie rocks. I loved it. You guys should go see it, I'm serious. I've seen it three times now. If any more opportunities come up, I will be seeing it again. lol

I'm 21, full beard, lonely, and fat. If I went to a theater to see this I would be put on a special list.

Plus are you not too old for this stuff? These pixar/dreamworks movies just don't do it for me anymore. I liked the IceAge movies but I sure as hell didn't pay to go see them.

You would not be put on a special list. Maybe a list of awesome people if anything.

It reminded me of myself as a kid and it helped me keep moving forward right when I was about to give up.

Are you depressed? I can relate to that. I live alone in an apartment in greenville, sc. No job, no school and no family...just me and the computer..just me and the computer.

It is hard being gone from everyone, these last four months have been..well mind changing. So I know how it can be with kid movies but usually for me I have to watch something that I watched as a kid to get me in the right mind set. Say what you will about paul rubens (Pee Wee Herman) i still love his films.

I'm a big disney fan anyway tbh, went and saw this today and was pleasantly suprised, felt like something walt would be proud of and I liked that - especially how it was tied in with mickey mouse at the start.

The commercials are a very poor representation of the final movie. They actually bug me quite a bit. All anyone ever says when you mention the movie is "I have a big head and little arms". Drives me insane. There are many funnier parts. Not only that but they don't even understand the context of that joke.

Also yeah I've been kinda down lately. College is not panning out very well. Bradley is pretty disappointing and I'm on the verge of failing out. I can't seem to make the situation any better no matter how hard I try. It seems like all my successes have no bearing on anything and my failures decide everything. Plus the usual stuff. Friends being difficult and parents being jerkish. I mean it's not like I'm some crazy party all the time get drunk college kid. The last time I drank was a can of Old Milwaukee N/A when I was 5. So when I call and tell my mom I'm worried about my grades and I don't know what to do I'd like a little support or something instead of just getting yelled at. It blows hardcore.

No, don't worry I'm not going Emo on you all things have just been a bit rocky.

No problem. It really does suck when your parents aren't supportive. If you end up dropping out or something, maybe that college just isn't for you. You said you gave all you could, and things are only getting worse, so if it ends up not working out at all soon then you might consider that maybe it's just not your destiny.

Dude, your signature takes up 75% of a 1024x768 screen. You need to reduce the size.

Subject: Re: Meet the Robinsons
Posted by icedog90 on Sun, 15 Apr 2007 05:05:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes, please reduce the size. Right now it far exceeds the limit and must be smaller.

THE RULES Signatures: These should be nothing more than a small image and few lines of text. Once signatures start getting larger than 8-10 lines of text (approximately 450*150 pixels), it distracts from the actual post. The purpose of a forum is to read what other people have to say, not to look at the "pretty pictures" in their signature. The file size of signature should also not exceed 512Kb. If you think that this is too large, you can choose to hide signatures in the Control Panel.
