KEEP IT TO ONE THREAD, You have like 5 threads about the same exact thing, I dont mean to be rude, but it is getting annoying to look for updated mods and find 500 of the same issue in 500 different threads.

You're mising presets. Either import the presets where they are or ignore and recreate them.

LevelEdit gives no presents, Santa Claus does.

Just take the objects.ddb and put it into the presets folder in your mod folder. You just have to extract the objects.ddb and temps20.ddb (or something) and also convs10.cdb

Few questions:

1. Are you using Jonwil's version of LevelEdit?
2. Is there an objects.ddb file in the presets folder. Presets get loaded from that file. It could be the cause of this problem.
3. Have you tried to rename the always.dat file to objects.ddb which doesn't load properly?

1. If not download Jonwil's Version.
 2. If there's no objects.ddb file in the presets folder I will send you a default file.
 3. This won't work. You should try to open Always2.dat and extract the objects.ddb file out of it.

Quote:2. If there's no objects.ddb file in the presets folder I will send you a default file.

It would probably be this one, but I think I'm missing another file "fullmoon.tga" unless that comes with objects.ddb or you just don't need it?

You don't need that file. It keeps saying I miss the file too, but I don't see any problem in NOT having the file.

I reads the scripts from your renegade folder so you don't need to make a new folder called 'scripts' everytime and it contains some bug and name fixes.

If you have XCC-Mixer, you can extract the file from Aways2.dat or Always.dbs try both.

Okay, usually when I see this error it means that I made a new preset, placed it on the map. Then I saved the map, and quit level editor without saving the presets. 2 fixes to this, remake the preset named default, or you can sub another preset in for it.

You normally find it here:

C:\Program Files\RenegadePublicTools\<modname>\Presets\

That means that it cannot find where Renegade is installed. Like i said before the registry fix will fix this.

A work around is to create a folder on the C: drive called Westwood. In this folder create another called Renegade. Copy and paste everything from the TFD Renegade folder to this new folder and fix the registry to read from that. (This is a highly advanced thing to do especially 'messaging' around in the registry. DO NOT attempt unless you know EXACTLY what you're doing!)

General tips to stop LevelEdit from hating you:

- Don't mess around with the presets unless you know what you are doing, or have a backup
- Don't leave ANY fields empty when applying a script to something, or LE will crash
- Don't open your mod's map with another mod package's information

That's all I can think of at the moment.

You forgot the trailing slash!

It should be "C:\Westwood\Renegade\".
