In before lock.

Anyway, this is what blogs are for. Find one, and maybe someone will care and read it.

Awesome, Just pure awesomeness.

Out of php, css, Visual Basic, C#, C++/CLI, C++, and other programming languages, you choose the hardest one of them all (), HTML, Man, you own, Here's a cookie and a e-penis booster!!

<circle jerk with everyone else posting with satire that is not funny or intelligent>

So yeah, and it's not an "internet language."

HTML is a mark up language (hyper text markup language) and yeah like everyone else said blah blah get a blog it's not a programming language

<circle jerk and further trolling with everyone>

As already stated, HTML isn't programming it's markup.

Check out <http://www.w3schools.com/> use the W3C Validator <http://validator.w3.org/> and learn CSS I recommend.

I might also have challenged the definition of nerd vs. geek but I'm not in the mood right now
