What exactly is it that your stuck with?

The default settings in BRenBot for mIRC are fine, the only two things you need to change are the BotName= and IrcChannel= settings, and it will connect to the n00stories IRC by default.

It's just highly annoying that every noob calls IRC mirc.

There's a difference between IRC and mIRC? I suppose I learn something new every day.

IRC is a protocol for how IRC clients and servers should talk to each other.
mIRC is an client that can connect to an IRC server, by the IRC protocol.

Ontopic:

The default settings in BRenBot for mIRC are fine, the only two things you need to change are the BotName= and IrcChannel= settings, and it will connect to the n00stories IRC by default.

^^ did you do that already?

If you did and it doesn't work, please check if you have the channel names right (with the # in front). Also, botname MUST be unique, else it can't connect.
