Greetings all! It has been a freak'n LOOOOOOOOOOONG time since I've visited this community. Been almost about 4-5 years now if feels like, but probably a little shorter... haha.

Anyways, as I was rumbling through some older stuff with Exdeath, he suggested I should post some screenies of a level that I have neglected to finish. Off and on I've been working on it, but I never completed it. Still lacks 2 map areas unfinished and unused (without a purpose atm) and a few models that I haven't been motivated to model either... anyways, here's a few screenies since Exdeath suggested so...

Not that this is a guarantee structure of the leve, but it's suppose to be progressional; you cannot proceed without killing atleast the primary bosses...

Special note: This map isn't for release, but if I ever got off my fat ass, it could be... ;P

Enjoy! ^=^

PS: These were all saved with the "save for web" function, so that should help out.

This map is so awesome looking, it's probably the most unique mod renegade has ever seen.

Wow... just wow.

Did you model that beast from scratch?

I modelled everything that you see with the exception of the character and other basic Renegade functions... ^=^

I made a single player level sort of like this awhile ago, but didn't release it to many people. This level looks awesome, too.

This one is actually multiplayer gdi vs nod. Nod is trying to release these forces upon the world. GDI suppose to stop them by helping this new "draconic" race. But, because I'm a challenging person, I made the new race set as "mutant" so it's hostile to both GDI and Nod. Technically, this map is huge enough that I could turn it into multiple DMs and tournament maps for infantry... who knows... maybe I'll finish it sometime in my lifetime... haha! ;P

That's why most people delete the file within the final level file after export...

Perhaps I could... xP
