I know that ACK has been able to acquire the westwood tech center in C&C Land, but he won't release it. Because of this, and the fact that Westwood's is horribly inaccurate I have decided to make my own. Here is a screenshot of what I have so far.
<http://www.n00bstories.com/image.fetch.php?id=1280331191> Unlike ACK's this one will be released to the public.

Looks good. I think I'll have to make the bases a little longer in my map. P.S. How did you take that picture of C&C95? Everytime I do the picture is really dark and messed up.P.S.S. You the man!Edit: Just a little more polys on those three geospheres. I know it looks like that but not that bad. Good texture though. [ February 16, 2003, 10:36: Message edited by: dead4ayear2 ]

Good for him. You people decided that you have rights to everything I own and that you'd extract my files without my permission, so you pay the price for being little selfish brats without any kind of honor or patience.

He was going to release a map with the mutant lab in it, and has said many times he would share things with people who would give him credit. But people made blatant statements saying they were going to steal the models and put them in their own maps and claim them as their own, so he decided not to release it.It's sad that "a few bad apples have to ruin the whole bunch", but Ack cannot be blamed for protecting something that is his. Before people reply and say "yeah but he blah blah blah" Im talking about this incident/model only. I have no interest in debating his popularity, or peoples past/other issues with him.

I never said I wouldn't give him credit! Most of the people that are on this board know what it looks like anyway and know that it wasn't really mine. I just wanted to use it to make my map a little better.

The base/walls are a bit too high, compared to the smaller pic you show.

I have one that I made too, but I wasn't attempting to exactly replicate the TD one.I never finished modelling it or texturing it though.<http://cncsg.cncuprising.com/images/mutlab.jpg> [ February 16, 2003, 21:43: Message edited by: Taximes ]
