For those unaware of my pegging antics, me and a group of friends have been having wars for years over a game I invented called "Pegging". The idea of the game is to put a peg on somebody without them knowing.... then wait for them to find it and shout at you. Simple.

Some of my friends/parents/relatives etc have been known to turn up at the gym/supermarket/work and be told that they have a peg on their back.

My neighbour decided to take this one step further and peg my car. One day, I walked out of my door to find my car covered in pegs.

So, me and my mate took this one step further and got ultimate revenge.....

Nothing wrong with a bit of friendly fun. It's not like pegging is the only thing I do with my life.

I lol'd hard!

I was expecting his whole house to be covered in pegs though.

Also, what does that note read out?

Well there's not a lot of peggable things on a house as most of it is bare brick so there's nothing to peg, but believe me, if it could be done, it would've been done!

This is only the start, if she retaliates I'm going to take it to the next level and buy another 1000 pegs and do the back garden aswell.

For all us Americans, I guess pegs = clothes pins.

Very funny, I should try it.

Clothes Pinning doesn't have quite the same ring to it as pegging though...

Can't remember offhand. I'd had a few beers at the time.

From looking at the picture though, it looks like:

Quote:Dear Lynn, Helen & John,

We hope you like how we've decorated the FRONT of your house, just the front.... nowhere else!
At all!

We're sorry for waking you up at 1am but we put the pegs back as we know that deep down inside you really appreciated the time and effort we put into decorating your house's exterior

Love Dave xxx

PS. The "chandeliers" were Edd's idea!

My neighbour's boyfriend went out for a fag or something at like 1am and saw all the pegs. So he and my neighbour put all the pegs on their house on my car. So when they went back in we took the 30 or so pegs off my car, put them back in the bucket and went back at 4am and did the whole house again unnoticed... apart from the dog which barked at us once and poked it's nose out the window every 5 minutes meaning we had to dive in the bushes under the window not to get detected. Gawd knows how he knew we were there.

I don't think they realised how many pegs we had!

If she retaliates, stage 2 will commence.

One of the guys in my cs clan has grouped together a few of his friends and bought 1500 pegs and done the same to one of his mate's houses aswell hah. Pics soon if he took any.

Heh, me and my neighbour are going to peg my mate's house tonight with the same pegs (the one who helped peg her house).

He lives up in the hills away from the village and he keeps saying he can't be caught. So we're going to peg him before he goes to uni this weekend.

Pics to come!

<http://www.invisiongamers.com/img/peg/Peg2.html>

I'm not as happy with this one. I feel to really reach full effect we would've needed in excess of 3,000 pegs considering the size of his front garden. Maybe even more.

We didn't peg the house much because there wasn't much to peg.

Once he's gone to Uni I think we're going to start pegging the miserable old people in the village.
