We already seen your retarded MSN conversations in another topic, please learn how to use punctuation and at least make an effort to spell your words correctly, it's hard to laugh at something that takes so much effort to read.

Interestingly the title of this section is

Quote:Other

Need support for something unrelated to Renegade? Post here!

And it comes under the Technical Support category of the forum.

So, can you please post whatever problem it is that you need help to fix? Or are you too stupid to actually check which part of the forum your spamming when you post these useless topics?

You didn't answer my question, what is your technical support query? Or are you just too stupid to check which forum your in before posting stupid topics? If you don't respond I am going to have to assume that is the case.

You created a topic in Technical Support but have not yet posted what it is you require Technical Support with. Therefore you either have not yet posted your problem or you are too stupid to bother checking what forum your posting your spam topics in.
