Was playing hourglass and my humvee got hit by a mobart shell. There was a big smoke cloud and I drew back, and the wheels were gone! It wasn't lag as I got out and let someone else drive it around and it still had no wheels. They never came back lol. Other humvees in the area still had their wheels...very strange.

At least I got a good look at the humvees suspension were did the mobart hit your hummer?

maybe if a mobart can hit a hummvee in a cerain spot it blasts the hummers wheels off!

I've seen it a lot. I've seen the arty without wheels, and the buggy. I got screens of them somewhere but I'm not gonna go dig em up at this time in the morning.

So does this mean I can take the wheels off of vehicles with heavy weapons? How did we not know this was possible? I bet the team spent weeks tuning this.

This has to go into renegade alert. I want to blow a mammoth tanks tracks off with artillery. But don't let the tanks/vehicles move if this happens. Such a heavy blast would mean it would be messed up pretty badly. Brings a whole new element to the game. Aiming rockets and shells onto the tracks. And it might mean tanks will HAVE to hull down alot more often then before to avoid being torn apart. And maybe add a whole lot of smoke and fire when this happens. Wouldn't you love to see the enemy tank erupt in smoke and flames while floundering in place and desperately trying to train the barrel on you while you take a few more shots to finish of the tank.

Nah it's not just hourglass. It has happened a few times on my clans server over the last year. It is quite rare for it to happen though and somethimes only certain players will see it with no wheels. My clan firend has a screenshot of me driving an arty on mese with no wheels even though i know it had them. It is quite funny when it happens though. The things i have seen it happen to are:

Nod APC with no wheels
Nod APC with just the middle wheels on each side
Nod Buggy with no wheels
Nod Arty with no wheels
Nod & GDI Harvesters invisible or have no wheels
GDI Hum-vee

I did notice that this seems to happen a lot on Hourglass, Mesa and Walls a lot though, when it does occur. It only seems to happen to wheeled vehicles, don't know why it happens, just some random thing i suppose. This is just one of the weired or fun bugs that happend in renegade sometimes.

You're running quite low on FPS...
Only 10 FPS.. maybe that is part of the problem? The game should run on at least 20 FPS if you have configured graphic settings properly.

Press either F8 or ` to bring up the console at the top of the screen, then type FPS and press enter.

I think it has something to do with the LOD (Level of details)
Renegade adjust the amount of Polygons showed up consistiong on your grafik posibiliteties.

Set your grafik settings to the lowest posible seting and you will notice that the vehicles looks a bit more bad that if you set it to the highest options.

So if many things happens Rengade sitch to a 'lower' LOD may thats why somtimes the wheels diapear because renade switch back to higher level and the mesed up with the wheels.

SOunds a bit confusing? Don't mind. lol. Just a crasy voice in my head told me that.

Thaat actually makes some sense w00t I belive that this may well be cause of the phantom wheel thieves.

Yeah the same thing has happened to me before in a buggy when their wheels disappeared i have a picture of it on my PC but i am at college at the moment so i will post it when i get home.

Also with the apc some times when i have the display settings down low the middle wheel gets raised off of the ground and looks really wierd.

I had the harvi pile up vechiles on top of it in the middle of walls flying just...

It was just in the middle of the paths and alll nods airdrops ended up on top of the harvi...

Sorry no screeny will try to do it again 0_o ...

This is what makes Renegade fun .
