Has anyone ever done a successful Nod Rocket Soldier rush? Its a lot worse of course, but does anyone have any footage of one actually working? It kind of suprising me people don't do it more often for points, or just to get the enemy's mind off other things.

You gotta be pretty desperate or something to do that kinda rush. That's why you rush with chems cuz chems > nod rocket soldiers.

There are some infantry characters in Renegade that are not even worth talking about.

They're the only characters which use rockets for NOD. They're good for the tunnels in Field, and other stuff.

I'd rather see a raveshaw rush.

For some reason, seeing a 5 foot tall asian guy cloned 10 times or so shooting at a building sounds hilarious.

Yeah, but Nod rockets are a piece of shit. For the 225 credits you would waste on him, I would rather save it up for SBH or LCG.

See, you have to think about the duration of a character over the course of the game. Can you use the Rocket Officer well throughout the game? No. He is crap. Useless.

Are we talking about unit whoring or building destroying?

The RSO is only good with infantry and vechs from distances and hitting things from inside the base, partly because of the splash damage. Other than that, they are only good for hitting buildings as long as you have another infantry thing with them. If just 6 of them were rushing and you ran up against some soliders, then the rocket lanucher does not fire fast enough to hit the solider. As where the gunner rockets hit just fine and fast. (Fast and Furious) So I do get them for small areas (tunnels) or where I can hit a building easily, camping in the small upper level in the buildings in C&C city, or by killing an apc of tank that is infantry whoring inside the base when the obby is down.

Its not superbodies. Your thinking big hit box hacks, but its not either because his aimer is inside the target box, at a weird angle, its an easy glitch which just looks funny

Definitely Spanish.

For the rocket-launcher to be useful it really needs faster-moving projectiles. Or double-damage. That would make it useful. A sniper rifle does more damage to a light-skinned vehicle than a rocket launcher does, another reason its near-useless.
