I know i've let people know about this before. But <http://renegade.dmehosting.com/> has been updated with more stuff. Feel free to link to it or mirror those files. If you do, please give recognition that it's mirrored from dmehosting.com. I'm also looking for someone to keep updating that archive site with new material. If anyone is interested let me know. It has almost all of the Renegade files there, but not all, so I want someone to update it constantly! This is a community archive of files and it looks like people still download from that site, so it needs to be updated constantly.

RenGuard prefers their installers not be mirrored on non-BHS domains, to be honest. Not because I don't trust you but as a general rule. Due to the nature of the product and the fact that it's nearly mandatory in some cases it's always safest and smartest to download it from the official source and not a mirror.

Also, the WOLspy you have from DJLaptop is one version out of date.

Deleted. If WolSpy is out of date, do you have a link to a later release?
