I just wanted to let everyone know that there is the very new and popular server back up from a long time ago.

This is on WOL some come and joining our community:

[DWC]DarkWorld Modded AOW

Please come to our forums aswell:

Then why when I log in I see 569 players?

EDIT: It is also on GSA but I don't remember the IP and name right now.....

Good luck with setting up a new server. You will probably find it hard to attract players, but good luck anyway .

When you log onto WOL you are actually loggin onto xwis.

Good luck, your going to need it.

Just remember people will not join an empty server.

Get a few of your friends to play around when the server goes online, that way the server is occupied. Pretty soon you will get people. You will be surprised how many people would actually go into it.

It takes a while for people to realize there is a server, but if you play long enough, you will get people.

How can it be popular if it's "very new"?

Well we already have some people, but we could use a lot more. It really is already up and setup and I am not hosting it.....Darkness2 is and it was very popular a year ago except the server got shut down for other reasons and now he has brought it back up and running.

I was about to ask the exact same thing.

Sure it might have been popular a year ago I doubt it will be now most people just stick with 1 server and that is it, but if your lucky there might be some loyal fans that will join it often.

The WOL domain redirects to XWIS.

Hey MSWindows!

Didn't you give me a PM in-game today? Sorry I could not reply due to heavy fighting.

Anyway, I will stop by in your server tommorrow.

If it's popular, why do you need to advertise it?

Isn't Budweiser popular, and they still advertise. Isn't Windows OS popular? And Microsoft still advertises it. Isn't ford/nissan/etc all popular car manufacturers popular in America? And they still advertise...

I've only seen one Microsoft Ad in my entire life, and that was when Vista was first released. Compared to the shitstorm I'm drowning in every time Apple makes a minor adjustment to their OS and slaps on a new feline name, or miniturizes the iPod some more, Microsoft doesn't advertwise at all in comparison.
