I'm just curious to know if there is a popular gaming community that is interested in having a free gaming server set up. The community needs to be popular and pretty well established and can guarantee people will play on the server. It doesn't have to be Renegade, is anyone on this forum part of one?

Yes, WWW.MP-Gaming.COM

We have been around for a while, and I could guarantee people to play in the server. We have recently moved over to cnc_reborn and are enjoying an extremely healthy player count for it. Our forums have also recently gained quite a few more members and there has been an definite increase in activity
We also host an APB server and have a very good player count there too.

MP is win, more servers from there then any other community I've seen anyway. YEs, they get severe lag sometimes, but otherwise, it's perfect.

Oh, lucky us because what we really need is even more servers! Not that I got anything against MP, just want to show this isn't really a decent reasoning...

If you're so uptight about having so many servers up, take yours down

I don't really think anybody has the right to say you're not allowed to make a server, especially when they have one.

Having more servers doesn't mean anything, having 1 server that is actually popular and full once in a while is something.

Well if you do choose MP-Gaming.COM, we also have COD4 servers and a CSS server, with APB and Reborn, we have a presence all over the place.

Good luck to all whoever he decides.

About Goztow's and RoShamBo's arguments:

Both have a point.

We all have a right to start a new server.

But it is indeed a fact that the more servers, the lesser the playercount per server will be.
Less players = games dies quicker.

About this topic original question:

Nope, not interested, don't want to sound desperate (even though I might be)

As for Recon's little rant.

Recon, seeing you post about how you accuse people of failure is like seeing a movie from Osama Bin Laden accusing people of terrorism.

Hilarious, that's what it is. See the irony?

For example your failure in this very thread to flame MP gaming...

I don't really appreciate people coming in here and start saying "So and so community sux..". I take no interest in those opinions. And all this fight over to many servers for Renegade, this server doesn't have to be a Renegade server. Although I do agree that Renegade is over saturated with servers.

MP-Gaming, if you are interested in something like this...what is your contact information? I'm assuming you have IRC?

That is not true. The crappy servers are left empty.
