Yeah, I just got it even though I despise it because everyone thinks Dragonforces' lead guitarist is the best because he can play really fast (Even though that's not real skill imo)

Anyway I gave Career mode a blast and there are some good tunes, plus, Guitar battle with Tom Morello is awesome, then playing Bulls on Parade with him? woo!

Too bad I got it for the PS2 :/ I can't download custom tracks for it.

Anyway, has anyone got it? what do you think? favorite track? oh and can you play online with the PS2 for it?

My favorite track at the moment is Bulls on Parade because it's a simple track I can play along to without hardly fucking up.

Oh and if you're in here to troll, yes I realise it's a plastic toy, yes we all realise it's button mashing, but it's fun, and that's what counts, now piss off.

I have it for Wii.

Overall, I'm not very impressed with the game. It seems like a total downgrade from the other 3 games. It doesn't take any skill to pull off hammer-ons any more, the scene and character animations and also atmosphere just suck completely and there are a lot of songs I don't like on there.

That is not to say that I don't enjoy playing it, I play it pretty often.... I just think it could of been better. GHII was the best so far, imo.

And I can do Through the Fire and Flames on Hard

Also, it is only button mashing if you suck .

I don't have the coordination or something to play Guitar hero, seriously, it just completely eludes me. I played once and just got into this insane frenzy of button mashing after like two seconds of struggling to keep up with the notes.

I can do pretty fair with drums on Rock Band, though.

Raining blood- 176'041

One- 313'223

NOTB- 89'657

Cliffs of Dover- 83'826

I'm the best at one, obviously.

But raining blood is my favourite song, I want to gold star it.
And through fire and flames song in my opinion is way to hard.

But, I can do over 60% of the song.

DF were shit before Guitar Hero, now everyone likes them for some apparent reason.

I'm waiting to unlock Paint it Black - Rolling Stones and Duality - Slipknot.

Then I think this game is worth the £45 I spent on it.

I agree with not being a fan of that guitarist from Dragonforce just because he can play fast.

But not calling it a talent to play that fast seems kind of dumb to me. I don't even know anyone who can play that fast while playing random notes..

You can't just not call it a talent because you don't like it. If I don't like something you are good at and like doing, that doesn't mean that what you do isn't a talent.

I like TDWDTG, it is a good song the version they have in the game. But I don't like how it is a boss battle. They should of made it an option to play it solo in quick play.

Also I don't like how impossibly stupid the notes are. I beat it on Hard (after 100+ attempts) but really.. it isn't fun when you are expected to hit notes that don't even show up in the song.

I mean there is a single note the song plays while you do a hammer-on for like 3 colors... it's ridiculous. And another thing I don't like about it, since it is a boss battle song, the timing for hitting the notes is expanded so you will do exponentially better even if you are nowhere near close to hitting the note. Once you know that and you beat the song, you feel empty inside cause you know that it was in your advantage.

Hmm? I'm pretty sure you can get it on all modes, it is part of the boss battles.

I just played it on hard because that is the mode I started on. (I skipped over Easy and Medium when I first played it)

But you never actually acquire the song for quick play, it is only available in Career and even more over is only available as a boss battle that is retardedly hard.

Guitar Hero's Guitar Engine- I.E, timing, difficulty, etc.

Is WAYY better then Rockbands guitar.
Rockband lags on a hard song, it's utterly garbage singing.

And, theres a new extension for the Guitar Hero, (custom made however) That allowed you to use drums.

All iun all:
rock band has good songs, but if you play the game for Guitar Only,

I disagree. Difficulty Wise 1, 2, and Rocks the 80s were better more challenging. However GHIII is just flat out retardedly harder. There are notes that don't even seem to make sense in songs. Not to mention pulling off Hammer-ons is so much easier in GHIII that it doesn't require skill or timing, your finger just needs to be there regardless if there is a note or not.

You feel less like you are actually "playing" the guitar part in GHIII.

I know the most amount of songs in GHIII than the other ones, but I don't really like the list. I only really play it for maybe about 5 or 6 songs in the hole game.

And visually, I don't see how this is opinionated. Visually.. GHIII is vastly inferior.

The quality in this isn't the greatest but what ever. This is GHII. (I couldn't find a good video for GHIII that was screen recorded)

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xK7CVFHIYVI>

From what you can see, the interface is much smoother and isn't choppy or blocky looking. Effects of hitting the notes look much better rather than that fake-looking firepaper effect in GHIII. The waves made by long notes with Wammies is much more fluent and less fixed than in GHIII. The background scene looks overall better. Better animation, better character design, better effects. The audience actually plays into the song and there is actually a lot of people, not a handful of clones like in GHIII.

Go for RockBand man. RockBand is just more fun to play, more instruments, more style.

GH is all about being able to play the music you love, but some songs get ridiculous. RB keeps it real and adds 2 other instruments! Clearly its the best choice.

yeah i second that, if you have 3 friends that enjoy playing guitar hero with you then get rockband you will not regret it.

better songs, more of them, no stupid boss challenges and it just gets everybody going so much more than GH ever could.

i also agree that the second guitar hero has better songs, but i like the speed and play of #3 alot more, it is faster, the hammer ons are easy... and tom morello song rocks.

plus again like someone already said for ps3 and xbox you can download alot more songs, coop mode where one plays lead guitar the other has a choice of bass or rhythm guitar, depending on the song. and you combine your note streaks and the rockstar power into one, and score ofcourse.

also no offense but, 300k for one is pretty low i can get 250k on medium and 230 no problem on hard. im sure on expert if you did the song perfect you could top 500k.

i beat all of medium and some on hard. i like "devil went down to georgia" its a hard song but its so much fun. unless im stoned then i end up button cramming it and only getting 75% or so lol. if i try i can get low 80's on it while on hard.

also for xbox 360 you can download the halo song for guitar hero. but i dont like it all that much, it sounds like a stripped down version of the song, and its a little on the hard side.

Guitar Hero: Aerosmith

Guitar Hero: On Tour (Nintendo DS)

Guitar Hero: World Tour (Guitar Hero 4)

Guitar Hero: World tour features a drum set that will basically mimic actual drums.
