Really funny way is the way I did it, I saved up all my beacons from the previous missions, I never used them, so I placed an Ion Cannon beacon on the helipad, and fought him there, when I heard the ion cannon was just about to touch down, I ran away, he went poof, went for sydney, and I capped him with my minigun man, you are taking this a little too seriously. i would love some single player cheats too, simply because i hate getting stuck at certain points in a game where i'm forced to play it over and over again until i get bored and start playing some other game. the AI in Renegade is so stupid that i'm playing at the commando mode to be challenged a little, but that setting is just a little too hard. oh, and i don't cheat at multi-player because that would ruin the fun of others, but s/p is different because getting stuck ruins my fun. i'd rather complete a game using some cheats than get stuck and discard it for something else. I kept getting to the part of the Chateau mission when Mendoza comes after you. I got killed a couple of times and got *ed. Sonuva picks up health packs and such. Anyway Before entering the chateau I would use my C4 to blow up the helipad and then I had a funny idea. Mendoza likes to go stand on the center of the helipad so before I went into the chateau I put 6 C4 all around the little Nod logo on the helipad. I completed the mission and then fought Mendoza by shooting him the normal way. Well when he went and stood on the center of the helipad I activated the remote C4. BOOOOM! HAHA Mendoza's health dropped to 0 at which point he starts heading for Sydney. I came up behind him and torched his backpack with Fire as a FY to him. No More Mendoza.. It was very funny.

What about when you beat it already? What do you do when you beat single player on commando already? It's fun to have cheats so you can totally massacre the retarded AI.

I hear that! I've been stuck at the Church and can't get any where! I don't like to use cheat codes, but I don't like playing the same spot over and over again.

using a walkthrough doesn't kill tough enemies, and, agreed, cheaters in m/p ruin the game for everyone.

If you don't try harder to beat those hard places on your on? What hopes are for you in multiplayer... They're not gonna let you cheat there.

i rarely play m/p, especially team based m/p. i prefer deathmatch where all you do is slaughter other people--not a lot of strategy there.

the reason alot of people complain about sp cheats is this... they care... they want everyone to play the game to its fullest and not have to cheat... but like i said once...you cant change a cheater so they wont cheat anymore... just like you cant chane a anti-cheater to cheat...also about mp cheats... thats just being a idiot and wanting to ruin everyone elses fun...

My $0.02I don't buy games to play multiplayer, but might try it with Renegade. I don't see the problem/complaint about single player cheats - multiplayer too, but that would be hard to enforce I guess. Look at SimCity - cheat codes freely available from the publisher, and either you use them or you don't - what's the big deal?!It does put a different spin on the game, and knowing you're invulnerable gives you time to play differently. This isn't real life anyway, so why not.
