Old news but this is a new development. They have got it working now and have a good prototype to base further designs from.

The main problem is getting reliable battery power to make the suit work for long periods of time. Right now it is getting power from an external source.

The helmet looks so hot...I am gonna hunt for a similar helmet and buy it.

OMFG a video on this suit! Gotta watch this:

Whoa...so the unrealistic battle suits of today's video-game characters will be tomorrow's standard military technology!

So the suits we see on the GDI soldiers on C&C 3 covers will be tomorrow's battle suit!

They will cover the exoskeleton with molded armor depending on the environment.

I was thinking about posting this when I first heard of it in early May, but I didn't think you'd be interested.

Your assuming that everyone else lasts as long as you do, but that's just wrong! Even Spooky's strawman would last longer than you.
