This should have been posted in the Renegade Client section and if you had posted or went to that section you would have seen this sticky:

When it asks you to login enter a nick you want to register(right in the login box not clicking "new account") and enter a 8 character long password and press login if it logs in and shows the servers the nick is yours.

Simple as that.

If you can't registered any nick that way you might have registered all of your 9 nicks already in which case you will have to delete one.

You've made sure the password is exactly 8 characters?
