I usually shut down ZoneAlarm whenever I start Renegade with renguard, but I made an exception one day.
Just as it was about to download the core patches (after complete re-install), ZoneAlarm blocked download.renguard.com/cp and marked it as a Spy Site.
Of course, I unblocked it, but what gives? Why did this happen?
Has this happened to anyone else?

And no this thread is not about how ZoneAlarm sux.

Never happened to me using ZoneAlarm, but then again, I've always disabled the Core Patch updates in RenGuard and downloaded them manually.

I run the free version of zonealarm without hitches.
Are you running the free version or the bought version?

I am running the bought version, but when my paid subscription expires (in about one year from now), I will likely switch to something else.
