
Subject: LMAO!!!

Posted by ballstein on Tue, 24 Jun 2008 08:26:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What is this world coming to.....

Quote:A judge says a Times Square entertainer who wears just enough to justify the name the "Naked Cowboy" can continue a lawsuit he brought against a blue M&M.

<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,370384,00.html>

Subject: Re: LMAO!!!

Posted by Muad Dib15 on Tue, 24 Jun 2008 21:04:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

absolutely retarded.

Subject: Re: LMAO!!!

Posted by warranto on Tue, 24 Jun 2008 21:33:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:For its part, Mars says the ad campaign was a parody and is protected by the First Amendment

Well, this move by Mars pretty much admits that the cowboy was the inspiration for the ad campaign.

Which means that, although a bit ridiculous in my view, it is still a valid lawsuit. He has a long way to go to prove any sort of damages or criminal acts, but it is a valid claim to make.

Subject: Re: LMAO!!!

Posted by SlikRik on Tue, 24 Jun 2008 23:34:05 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The cowboy's gotta prove that Mars claimed that the cowboy endorsed the advertising scheme when he actually didn't. But if Mars didn't put anywhere that he enforced it, he hasn't got a case.

I've got friends who have picture with the cowboy.
