You are seriously cutting into my DM fun by running it on a 486.

Seriously though, what happened? It was a nice stable server now it's laggy as h e double hockey sticks.

End of Whining...

We have a website, it's the-brotherhood.org

Mike supposedly restarted it and decreased the NetUpdateRate from 10 to 30, maybe that will help.

While typing this post I thought of a possible reason as to why the sudden lag spikes, I'll test my theory later today and hopefully that will fix it.

Fyi, our AoW and DM are hosted on the same dedicated server and the AoW does not lag at all.

We appreciate your concern, but as blue said, please use our website next time.

You mean decrease from 30 to 10?

I said decrease because the interval between updates is being lowered, wasn't referring to the actual number. Not sure which statement is better grammar tbh, looking it over yours looks more proper though.

The effect depends a bit on what exactly the problem is. When I read the TS post, then I thought you had SFPS problem. Increasing NUR from 10 to 30 will just make that worse.

Thanks for looking into it. Look forward to wiping the floor with you soon.

You ought to implement the !setjoin command. Those can be a hoot...

Just thought I'd let you know the lag problem should be fixed now, in case you don't visit our forums.

Thanks, and one more thing:

There's this moron that goes by the name "StealthOwl" who's been trolling your server generally driving people crazy spamming that he's going to be a mod and how he's going to ban on sight anyone who has "disrespected" him whatever the hell that means...

For the playability of the server don't give this 13yr old mod ability.
