Hello Team, my first post. I got the Ren CD but it is not the original one that i used to have a few years back. I bought a original one from a licensed EA company...but on the cover is the licnesed company logo..and the cd's is like blue in color Is there a way to know if it is first decade or last...

And is there a difference in the way I do the 9 step install with either one...either first or last decade? Is there such a thing as first and last decade? Do i still have to install all patches for both??

THank You...If it is of any I have Vista with SP1

If it's The First Decade, it will say "The First Decade" on the box, and you have (almost) all the C&C games on a DVD. You do not use the Renegade patch with TFD. There is no "last decade" compilation.

Hello! The only difference between TFD and "classic" is that patch 1.037 is pre-installed on TFD. You can install all core patches on both.

You might want to leave Renguard behind, as it's sometimes causing some crashes lately.
