Okay, I know this is shameless advertising for this young site, but we need hits and we actually have something very interesting for you.

Our guys went to E3 2008 and got to sit down with a C&C lead and a member of the development team for the upcoming C&C game. Here's the link to the Q&A:

<http://www.digitalchumps.com/e3-coverage/othermultiplatforme3/61-othermultiplatform--e3/995--exclusive-interview-command-and-conquer-red-alert-3.html>

And if you want to send me hate mail/anything feel free to ridicule me at nathan@digitalchumps.com.

I just wanted to be upfront and honest about my intentions.

It's a cheap plug, but it's not advertising. Advertising is just flat out, "YO LOOK AT ARE SITE ITZ GOT MAPZ AND FORUMZ".

Thanks, clears up some of my doubts about RA3. I still think some things need changing (Return of field-based ore, etc), but I do like some of the changes aswell (Removing the "LOL I KEEL UR HOLE BAES" type superweapons).

Our guy, Steven Schardein, grilled those poor fellows. He knows how much C&C means to you all and how they've umm.... not lived up to the original in a while.

Thanks for reading the Q&A, glad you liked it.

Those are some nice shots on there...it's amazing how they are recreating the bright original maps from RA2!

And this Japan faction...can't wait to see their units...this is a great fun RTS!

Lots of coool new artwork and shots here!

I don't know about anyone else, but those pictures reminded me of that taboo planet in Star Wars.
