These tactics will be shure to embarrass whoever you do them to. They sure embarrassed me!THE IGNORANT SNIPERGo in back of a sniper and to whatever it takes! For maximum fun, put timed on his back and slip out unnoticed. It will be so rando, that you will get messages saying that you cheated and you will be booted off the server! Umm, okay, maybe it's not so great then. There are tons of variations to this. One time I was sniping while an intense battle was going on under me. My side was loosing, but I was slowly winning. Someone went in back of me and slowly pushed me off the ledge without me noticing... I fell down, and those guys got revenge for all my sniping that I had done.THE ROAD RAGE TACTICSo far this has only worked for me on city. When there are enemy troops coming toward your base, push them over the side of the highway with a fast vehicle and watch them burn. For maximum compliment to injury, get them in a tiberium field.Now, that had happened to me, but mine was even more embarrassing. I was on City, and I had just gotten a shiny new flame tank to reinforce my allies who were fighting over the highway. I drove it up to the battlefield, but all of a sudden three mobile artiliries came from behind me and decided they should get there first. Yep, they pushed me off, and I exploded. Little mother f*ers.THE UNEXPECTED C4 TACTICWhen you've infiltrated the enemy base, wait for someone to go to a PT or just stand still (PT is better though). Put a timed on their head, and hightail it out of there! They won't know what hit them! I heard one guy put a remote C4 on a Raveshaw and told the Raveshaw to buy him a tank or he would detonate the C4. The Raveshaw actually did it! If I was him, I would say "* you GDI coward! I die for Kane!"You know, if Taximes ever reads this, I just think it would be funny if TSAI gets into a clan match and uses some of these. They are just pure comedy- until they happen to you of course.

I got booted from a few games because I would plant C4 on people with my stealth black hand. I was leading in points by almost double what anyone else had (this was when the game first came out).I guess the person running the server got tired of his Havoc blowing up suddenly and me taunting him. He kept picking off our people and I kept nailing him with my Pistol and C4 charges while he was aiming.

this doesn't qualify as a stupid tactic, but it is my dumbest blunder. i just bought a stealth black hand and nuke beacon. i was heading for the enemy base and noticed a mammy moving up on our base with a hotwire in tow. i stopped, snuck up from behind on the hotwire and popped him with my gun, only to get backed over by the mammy. 1400 down the drain! lol

I wish that you could put beacons on harvesters. Now THAT would be embarassing. But not as embarrassing as having your mammy taken out by a pistol (yes, I saw that happen in one game).

LOL....I've done that too! That's why it's always a great idea to let a stealth black hand in your apc engi/tech rush! It's so fun to see the panicked enginees fall to the invisible man!! think I racked up 14 kills once doing this (it's also a guilty pleasure to kill off respawning people in the building...I know it's cheap, but it's oooh so fun!)Part of the reason this works so well is because some engiess get so flustered when they rush in to fix the mct...if you stand really still, you'll often go unnoticed...it's like they look for movement out of the corner of their eye....

Planting C4 on people is just sooooo fun My best experience was in C&C Under. There were about 2 rocket infantry camping our tunnel door, shooting at obelisk. None of my teammates cared, they would just repair the obelisk and run off to battle, no matter how much I told them I needed a hand to take them out...So I got some money to buy a stealth black hand, got some C4, deployed it on his back, went back to base, bought more C4, deployed, etc... I had like 3-4 charges on each them It was so funny when I just typed in their names and said "Surprise!"

ah yes, the ole spawn camper. we had that situation back in ww2ol(what a shame that game didn't work. i wanted it to succeed so bad. now i've heard that crs has gone bankrupt. what a shame). there was much debate as to whether it was an ethical tactic. in the end, it was. so before any of you guys b*tch about the spawn campers, remember if your base defenses were there, they wouldn't be able to do that in the first place. sorry if i skewed this thread's topic, but i just wanted to say my peace on the subject of spawn camping.

Yeah, spawn camping in this game seems perfectly legitamate in this game. If an enemy can camp out long enough in a structure to kill off that many folks, you've already lost the game. That and the fact that there are a number of differnt spawn points in the game. I've ceratinly been picked off and spawned somewhere else, went back, and got sweet revenge!!!The only thing better than being a spawn camper is handing one his own ! (note: I put in my own asterisk's...just beat the * board at it's own game...oh, wait, forgot I couldn't say ****).

My most embarrassing manouver...In my newbie days in C&C (this was in the demo version) I bought a beacon not knowing it's full power, tried to plant it on the enemy harvester thinking it would take the beacon into the enemie's base and eneded up planting it in the TFeild (as a Chem). Unfortunatly I not only MISSED the enemy harvester, I nailed our own and killed two of my m8s. Oh well. It seemed like a cool idea at the time.

I have no shame, so I'll go ahead and post an embarrassing moment. I had just bought a nice shiny flame tank and hopped in. An engineer got in too, and I started heading towards the GDI base, driving over the end of the airstrip in the process. Sure enough, a cargo plane crashed right into my tank and killed it. The entire ride lasted about 3 seconds. I think the guy riding with me was in shock at what had just happened, because he just stood there looking at me.On a side note, I think the airstrip has killed me more times than other players have. One day I'll learn not to take shortcuts across it.

HEHE...Only once has tha cargo plane killed me. I joind a game on the islands.mix, and the first I heard was:Hand of Nod destroyed" (I was Nod)So I looked outside the controltower and saw a mammy starting to pound the refinery. I decided to buy a stealth tank that would last long if I used it right, and our airfield was destroyed(which was very likely)But as soon as I entered the stealt, the lag "dragged" my tank against the mammy, even though I was driving in the opposite direction Suddenly, my stealth dissapeared an he mammy pounded me. So i tried to put some speed on my shiny engy ass and ran over the airfield, turned around and saw the huge cargoplane mow me down Way too long story, shoot me oops...a couple of typos up there but I don't bother to edit I want to share yet another story, one of those "C4" stories.A couple of days ago, I played a game on Field, and I was running around in my stealth suit, grooving. Then I saw a huge, blue ray coming from the waterfall, and that sweet reload sound of the PIC. So I ran up the hill and found a Sydney and an Hotwire up there. Sydney was wrecking our harvester, whilst the Hotwire, who was the MVP, constantly fixed Sydney. I took the C4 out of my pocket and gently threwed it at the back of the Hotwire. Then I pulled back and pulled out the pistol, in case Sydney survived.After 30 seconds I finally heard it: "BOOM"-BOINK Both died in the sweetest C4 blast in MY recorded history Bet they wore embarresed

My most embrassing tactic is about C4 too. I was on the Nod and winning with the Hand destoryed. I went as a flame thrower and charged towards the GDI war factory. There is two flame tank flaming it but the health does not seen to go down. One entrance is heavily mined so I went in the other door. I found six eng 1 hotwire 1 prototype and 2 Havoc guarding and repairing MCT. I droped the C4 right between the eng and starting to flame them because I thought that I will never go out. I got killed by 2 shot and ion cannon hitting me at sametime about 1 sec after I started flaming. I respawned and went to the tunnel as a Nod soldier, when I just reached the war factory and thinking the C4 must be disarmed then a explosion inside the War fact and Boink. Six guys got killed then the war fact got blown up.

You can't put a beacon on any vehicles. If you do so and the vehicle leaves, it won't take the beacon with it. It will leave the beacon exactly where it was placed... 5 feet above the ground. I tried it myself already and here's proof.

Not an embarrassing moment for me, but someone out there should be feeling red about it.Last night playing on Monohan (server) in the volcano map. I bought an Sydney and yuri(don't recall the numbers after his name) was a regular gdi soldier. Both went to nod power plant, planted our allotted 1 timed c-4 each on the mct. And guess what, we BOTH stayed to defend our work. Multiple noddies came in to investigate and we took them out in between yuri and I lighting up the mct with tib rifle and reg rifle (2 timed c-4's ain't enough to take out one mct . After that I had enough to go back buy a hummer and a hotwire. Go directly to airstrip, lay my remote det c-4, place prox mines around inside of door when I notice - my hummer's being stolen by a nod troop - unfortunately he didn't think to check why the vehicle was there as I hadn't placed my prox mines yet. Needless to say I cared less bout the vehicle and continued on. Detted the remote c-4, placed my timed c-4, capped my m8 twice (we can never get on the same side) and typed to all ,

"I'm in your airstrip - WHHEEEEE!!!" After which it promptly blew up and everyone was kicked due to server shutdown. Anyway - thanks for the awesome teamwork yuri___ doesn't happen everyday.

I like hanging out in the Hand of Nod (as gdi), waiting for someone to spawn, then purchase an expensive outfit, then wasting them. They have a fair chance to shoot back, but by the time they figure it out, they've got a couple headshots in them. Since they're higher level, I don't last too long, but I've taken out a fair number of sakuras and mendozas this way.

My most embarrassing move? It was when I was getting big points and decided to make a rush with the beacon. Well, the game suddenly lagged and the screen went blue. When it came back to normal, I looked down and saw my beacon then looked up and saw heaven coming... AHHH!!! I guess I accidently pushed the button which set the beacon while I was frozen in my own lag.

Most embarrassing moment, it happened just now. Someone wanted to do a flamerush on Under, so we went, 5 flames. We almost had it, and I was the last one to survive, but there were too many hotwires, so I died. I come back to base, buy another, and wait for the rest. When one flame gets back almost dead, well I got *ed, we could have had the agt if he had did his job, rush till death. and the use your c4. He got out while I was expressing my anger with two jets of hot loving. Goodbye flame. He was the host. There is a lesson to be learned here, don't get *ed, don't destroy the neutral tank, when the host bought it and it's parked inside the base.gdf[March 29, 2002: Message edited by: gangal]

I did this in multiplayer tactics. But a way to stop GDI from getting bucks, get your buggie/humvee struct behind the harvester while it tries to go into the harvester. You can get the vehicle stuck and the harvester will be stuck there for the rest of the game unless the team figures out what's happen.

Funniest one I've seen...guy has a mammy with prox mines slapped all over the front. After getting pounded he jumps out of the tank and starts to repair it, right on the battlefield! Real intelligent, right? So i switch to my c4 and get ready because I just know some blackhand stealth is about to steal the tank...Sure enough, i see the glint of a stealth guy running to the tank..only to die when he gets too close to the mines! Now leaving a mammy empty is not a risk im not willing to take, but man was that a great way to trick a stealth!

I have been on the stealth c4 kick for a couple weeks now. The very best kill was a couple days ago. I put a timed C4 on the back of a sniper. I then took off back to the base to rearm with no clue where this guy went. Apparently he decided to hang out with a few of his buddies, 3 to be exact. BOOM Boink Boink Boink Boink. I almost fell out of my char laughing. One C4 4 kills. They must have been already damaged. I doubt they even knew what got them.

One time, I was on Nod and I was an engine. So I get into one of those box things with a friendly sniper in it. I must have been blocking his view cause he started shouting Get out of my way! and all. And I did. Or so he thought. I continuously got in front of him and he moved around. When I got bored of that, I flashed my repair gun in his face. He then backed up for no reason and suddenly, a GDI sniper gets me right in the back! At least I had fun whilst it lasted. Also one time I went into the GDI Barracks as Raveshaw and planted my timed C4 on the MCT and patiently waited for it to go off. It went off, and then I started blasting away with my rail gun at the inside of the Barracks.

Then a bunch of GDI start spawning inside or run inside to use the PT and while they sit there, without noticing me, I just pick them off. Of course I waited for them to buy whatever. I'm thrifty that way. I eventually destroyed the building that way. Then I lathered, rinsed, and repeat, always repeat, on the Refinery. The joys of Nod...

This was pretty embarassing for my enemies...Well, I just finished the really awesome islands game (4 vs 4) where, after purchasing a hotwire, beacon, and apc, managed to detonate it on Nod's beacon pad. It was then I found out that the stupid host turned off beacon victory. So I proceeded (24 health left) to the airstrip where a new flame tank lie.Unfortunately for me, it wouldn't let me in, so I swiped the brand new light tank and ran over its unexpected "owner" not noticing I was in it. By then the flame had a driver. I blew it up behind the Tiberium factory (Tank's health in the red) and the went inside, killed a shotgun trooper with my pistol (Remember I had 24 health) and proceeded to planting the rest of my charges.We won of course, and most likley the noddors were extremely embarassed by being destroyed by a hotwire with 24 health. hehe..

I was playing Islands as GDI when I bought a beacon and Hotwire. I used the tunnels to scoot over to their base. I placed the beacon right outside the airstrip. I knew their techs would scramble, so I gave them something to scramble to. I let a single pistol shot into the airstrip, and was rewarded with "Nod Airstrip Under Attack".I then made myself scarce, running towards the hand while the techies ignored me. I went in the back and planted four proxies around the MCT. I then used my remote c4s, alot destroying it. I deployed my timed, and knowing the techies would be scrambling, ran off to the tunnels. BOOM BOOM Boink Boink. Thirty seconds later, a larger boom, which took down the hand. Then a couple seconds later, the beacon went off. Boink Boink, Airstrip destroyed.So a lone hotwire destroyed an airstrip and the airstrip. Also, on the way back i planted a timed c4 on a Sakura. Boinkety Joy.

I GOT STUCK, im seriouse, my car didnt move forward and it didnt go reverse, my teammate spent 5 min trying to push my out with his car, and then finally he did, and the kool part is, i still had the tank but man it was hard to tell my team "um.... hey.... little help??... i sorta got stuck" lol

In one match at Gamespy, I was using Initiate in the tunnel. I fraged several guys with 10 shots left and a Mobius is chasing me in the tunnel. I reached a dead end and managed to have all 10 shots and some from my pistol hit him. He had very little hit points left while I was in yellow. I jumped out of the opening into the tiberium field down there and the Mobius followed me. I managed to get fully healed and killed him with the pistol with the help of tiberium poisoning. Must be a Newbie that wuold follow a cheap infantry to jump off a cliff and into tiberium field.

Lets see, my most embarrassing moment was in the days of the demo. It was about 2:00 am, and I had just joined a game as GDI. About 3 minutes in, I think one of my screws came loose or something, because I started using full evasive maneuvers (sp?) and attacking my own guys. A couple minutes later I thought "Hey, why arent they taking damage?" I felt so bad once I realized what a newbie I looked like.

This is one of the best C4 stories, probly quit embarrassing to the nme. I was an Engineer on the map Volcano. I bought a Buggy and started to head out to the Air Strip. I decided to try something. I wiped out my remote C4 and planted it on the Cargo Plane as it flew by. When it gained alltitude I detinated it. The Cargo Plane ended up crash landing into the NME base and destroyed all the buildings except the Tib. Refinery. I got MVP and i got a secret Character. It is a clown, kiind of weird but it owns all. I was amazed.

Wwll after reading about some of the humvee in a building posts, i decided to try it for myself in a game. I organized an engi rush with another hotwire and i drove toward the nod power plant. When we got there, the hotwire got out and i spent about 30 secs trying to get in the building. Apparently the hotwire detonated her remotes before the timed, so some noddies was able to repair their power back to full from the outside. About a minte later another group of hotties came in and laid down their c4 on the terminal followed by a few noddies close behind. With my shiny humvee in the power plant i continuously ran back and forth runing over several incoming noddies and shooting those who got past my little quantlet. Sure enough this time the power went down and i later maneuevred my humvee out of the ppp and drove it back to our base. I just wouldve loved to see the look on some of the players faces who got run over by a humvee in their own power plant.
