You may want to post some more info about yourself and what kind of clan you're looking for. There's enough clans out there, you may also wanna check this page to get a first idea on the number of clans around .

only two of those clans actually play clanwars and are registered users on the official renegade clan ladder.

Whats the point of being in a clan if you dont play clangames? to have a cool tag by your name?

its pretty much impossible to join a good clan unless you've proven to people you're good (by winning clanwars against them), your best bet is to get a few friends from public servers and get them to join your clan.. play lots of clanwars and pick up on tactics, after a few months someone will notice you improving and you'll be able to join a good clan. However, its more likely you'll play a few games, realize how ridiculously good most players are and quit lol, the well known respected players at clanwars dont cheat, therse a select few idiots that do everyone knows who they are, its just a matter of time before they get caught..

the clan thats won the most clanwars cups has never cheated, or even been accused by any decent players lol i cant see how cheat name removed would make people will games vs clans like h2o,ef and such. look at axeldogg, he probably places a stone on his shift key so he doesnt have to keep holding it in, and still manages to suck dick hardcore..
