<http://s1.zetaboards.com/CnC/index/>

I been making it for the past week or 2 i was going to hold off but i can't lol .

There is more forum's than it look's there just hidden from guests and members.

Like i said tho don't go crazy on me.

Tell me what you think.

You can register and post if you like i don't mind.

I will be looking for Mods for the site now and than everyone that is a mod or admin on the site will be a mod or admin in my servers,

When i start getting my servers up and running the forums for them will be displayed to everyone.

So enjoy my forums and no I'm not trying to top these forums just everyone Else's well not everyones

Pleas leave feedback

If you want to start running websites then that's a start but I have to say there isn't much you can do with a free pre installed board.

---

You might want to look into reading a few tutorials and you will need to learn PHP and MySQL or a similar scripting language. There's more to running a site then putting up a free board.

Why is Renegade X listed under the "Mods of Renegade" section on your site? It's not even a W3D engine mod.

Actually, the question I should be asking is "Where is the Roleplay 2 mod forum"?

Oh oh oh so you want me to post your mod huh?

Tell you what i will put it in there if you will give us update's about it on there.

lol I'm listing it now

Want me to add your forum's to the C&C RolePlay2 Forums i can put them in as Sub forums.

Also i forgot to tell you this, some stuff on the forums guest can't see like downloads and other stuff.

There is nothing like that on my forums.

Why would i want to hurt peoples computers i get nothing out of it?

You might not want to but the people who are hosting your forum and made your forum software might want to, I'm not saying they do though.

That doesn't mean much of anything really. You should look into it, because people aren't going to want to visit your forum or website knowing it might be lethal to their valuables.

I have no idea. You'll have to go do the research and find out.
