It'll be released when it's released. Quit asking.

The TT team is too cool for release dates.

Boo hoo, if you have a question, have the damned courtesy of reading other threads to see if it's answered/asked (If it's asked before, chances are it's been answered there), so you don't clutter up this forum with bullshit posts.

you don't have to answer this, but it might help people get a better idea will it be released before reborn is finished?

Depends on whether or not Reborn have recovered from the shock of actually managing to release anything (Re: the inf beta)

I have no idea when Reborn will be finished, hence I can not answer that question.

perhaps you can give a timeframe, by judging from the work that has been done so far, and the yet to be done work... do you reckon it will be weeks? Months? Years?

Estimated Time To Patch is given by this formula:
T = Sigma(i, 0 -> N - 1) of (Di) + A where N is the number of tasks and Di is each task's relative difficulty, and A is the time taken to respond to annoying threads...

There were some major flaws in that formula...

A tends to grow to infinity though so thats a problem factor.

Fixing the issues with renegade is not an easy task so it will take time and this is being worked on in their spare time! although they should not be allowed social lives.. they also have those to deal with to

Will probably never be finished, and will be an archived project. With a million ideas being thrown into this project, nobody has time to do them all.

Stop expecting this everyone....
