When this patch gets released its basically going to change the version number to 1.038 yeah?
So my question is will people with 1.037 be able to join TT protected servers?

NP: Just need it answered to clear up a BR command debate.

See the topic about that debate. The beta version most probably will be backwards compatible.
Once patched it will no longer be however (It will at least get a new version number, hence incompatible and we might remove the backcompat code then as well).
