Bah let's give this guy a chance, I guess. His policies suck but I think it was that Palin n00b who hurt McCain with her lack of IQ when he choose her over so many other intelligent women.

I want to see how world leaders react to this.

Obama = Bush = McCain

The only real change that will come about is by the fact that the Democrats control Congress. The only thing Obama can do is sign it all into law.

They're not really the same as much as you think. They CAN change a good bit, but not a WHOLE lot. Not on their own, anyways. With Obama as president and the democrats controlling congress though, I'm pretty sure they'll all jack off and pass every bill he wants passed.

Here's the kicker- now the Democrats own everything but the Supreme Court. With just a few more seats in each house of Congress, they can even muster the 2/3 majority needed to nullify any action taken against them. I hate the Republicans, I hate the Democrats, but there needs to be a balance between the two. You cannot hand the reins of power to a single political entity and expect the outcome to be anything good.

I am not looking forward to the next four years.

Agreed, as well. One party in power (e.g. They control two plus branches of our gov't will not be checked and balanced accordingly. They'll agree on a lot of things that they want to see made and to hell with other opinions. Why would you need to listen to other suggestions when you control enough of gov't to get your way?

No, it's my kind of attitude that is the only hope to save America.

American's need to realize that the president is not a king and he does crap for the country! The only thing that the president is good for is declaring war and vetoing bills... yea, that's some important guy...

America's government is supposed to be run with the people's consent. But thanks to the American people getting lazy these past decades, they just let the government do what ever and sit back while the country goes down the drain. The only reason why people are upset and concerned about the Obama being president is because they are too selfish and lazy to actually want anything to do with their country and expect it to be ran on its own. And now that people aren't very confident in Obama, they are getting uneasy. Well it serves them right, imo.

The only problem I see now is that people who do actually care for the country are going to have to suffer for the laziness of their fellow Americans.

The president doesn't declare war. It's CONGRESS that is SUPPOSED to pass a declaration of war.

There's so much wrong with that last sentence that I don't even know where to start. Clearly you haven't looked at Obama's voting record, his political ties, the Second Amendment, or the political definition of the term "Assault Weapon." I'm not gonna bring the whole pro/anti-gun argument in here, but at the very minimum would you please inform yourself a little bit better? Ignorance is doing enough damage to this country already.

Not if there is a super majority which in most cases there has been. After the declaration is passed it is his DUTY to carry out that declaration since he is the executor of the law. Constitutionally besides the threat of a veto the President has little power over declarations of war.

It's the War Powers Act passed during Nixon's Administration. Nixon vetoed it and Congress managed to override the veto.

In a nutshell, it states that the President must alert Congress within 48 hours of sending troops overseas, and troops cannot stay abroad in combat more than 6 months without approval by Congress. Congress has been loathe to enforce the WPA in the past.
