hey guys, just started with this site and maybe I can find some answers I'm looking for. I'm back online after being off a year and a half because of some issues I've had with the game. I just have a few questions.

1. Do I have to download anything else besides the game to get internet gaming access? (patches, scripts, and the like).

2. I do have a gamertag but I don't remember the password and I'm not sure that the computer might either. Is there any way that I can register for a new gamertag? I tried about 6 months ago but the internet registering sight was down so I gave up.

Thanks,
saxonkil123

P.S. I do have RenGuard

I'm not sure above posted link really replies to your questions.

For registering a new nickname or recovering the pass for an old nick, check here.

For your first question, I'm not sure what you mean. The game comes with the Westwood online components, which you install during Renegade installation. A second option is to use gamespy. This forum does not support any Warez though, so if you do not have a legal version of Renegade then we cannot help you. The game costs around 10 $ max nowadays anyways, so you may as well get a legal version of it.
