I have noticed something and it occurred to me so thought I would bring it here. When your Stealth BH you place a beacon then back away to defend it when a hotwire or engy shows up to disarm it right? Well when you see the hotwire or engy coming and they suddenly stop for a second and then continue on to disarm it they are typing the location. Shoot them quick when they are stopped. Because help isn't far behind. I have found 9 times out of ten they will stop typing to move out of the way or fire back and you might have a chance. But if you don't then by the time you do start firing a patch or mobius shows up to end your woes. Kaibigan

the timed c4 I left before I placed beacon will take care of them or just hide the beacon where they never check

I placed an ion cannon on the airfield once. The stupid buggers never look there.

I placed it on the red circle, but after I did a stealth tank landed on my head edit: btw the guy that got into the tank was a tech and didn't even bother to disarm the beacon [ April 01, 2002: Message edited by: Mikeon ]

My favorite was last night. Stealth BH with Stealth Tank and Nuke. He sneaks behind the power plant. I go around the other side and wow an empty ST. I jump in and there he is planting the nuke. I wait for him to finish then run him over. Jump out and disarm the nuke. MMMM Yummy nuke points. Then turn to get in the ST and someone blew it up. Kai
